Social Construction of Trust to Protect Ideas and Data in Space Science and Geophysics Lynne G. Zucker, Michael R. Darby, 1995 This paper applies a rational action economic sociology approach to the central organizational theory question of whether action is embedded in pre formed institutions that are relatively cheap in terms of time and energy or to what extent action becomes embedded in newly constructed institutions that are more costly but perhaps better adapted to task goals We develop a new model of the social construction of trust producing social structure based on the initial endowment of this structure the demand for it and the cost of social construction We test the model with data on construction of social structure in collaborations in space science and geophysics developed in a large number of interviews conducted by the Center for History of Physics of the American Institute of Physics We do find that greater pre existing endowment reduces social construction of new institutions while greater demand for trust increases that construction We also find some evidence that social construction of trust producing social structure in fact results in production of higher value science

Great Minds in Management Ken G. Smith, Michael A. Hitt, 2005-09-22 In Great Minds In Management Ken G Smith and Michael A Hitt have brought together some of the most influential and original thinkers in management Their contributions to this volume not only outline their landmark contributions to management theory but also reflect on the process of theory development presenting their own personal accounts of the gestation of these theories The result is not only an ambitious and original panorama of the key ideas in management theory presented by their originators but also a unique collection of reflections on the process of theory development an area which to date little has been written about by those who have actually had experience of building theory

In their concluding chapter Ken G Smith and Michael A Hitt draw together some common themes about the development of management theory over the last half a century and suggest some of the conclusions to be drawn about how theory comes into being

Trust and the Public Good William G. Tierney, 2006 Textbook Trust, Organizations and Social Interaction Søren Jagd, Lars Fuglsang, 2016-05-27 Trust Organizations and Social Interaction aims to promote new knowledge about trust in an organizational context The book provides case analysis of how trust is formed through processes of social interaction in which actors observe reflect upon and make sense of trust behaviour and its meaning in an organizational and social environment It greatly contributes to clarifying what a process view may mean in trust research and to the understanding how social interaction processes affect trust The contributing authors demonstrate how trust and distrust are produced and reproduced in a complex interplay with social processes and practices Instead of asking how trust may be measured or how trust is a resource for managers they explore how trust develops and how managers become intertwined with and caught up in trust processes This enlightening empirical analysis of trust and its relationship with organizational processes is a vital resource for students academics and scholars of organization management organizational behaviour and change HRM and learning Contributors include J Allwood N Berbyuk Lindström M Bosse M B Ellingsen B Espedal M Frederiksen L Fuglsang A H Gausdal K Grønhaug U K Hansen M Ikonen S Jagd S T Johansen I L Johansson K Malkamäki K Mogensen L N Slund M Neisig K A Perry M A Rasmussen T Savolainen M Selart A Swärd N Thygesen S Vallentin

The Business Improvement District Movement Seth A. Grossman,2016-06-20 This comprehensive book covers the theory and practice of Business Improvement Districts or BIDs partnerships between local communities and governments established to revitalize neighborhoods and catalyze economic development in a region In this book author Seth Grossman demonstrates the ways in which BIDs work pull stakeholders together and acquire funds to manage the difficult process of community revitalization especially in urbanized threatened town centers BIDs also blur traditional lines between public and private organizations and their governance raises critical new questions about democratic representation accountability transparency and responsiveness As this book illustrates BID managers act as public entrepreneurs and management in the public realm requires community development skills community planning organization and leadership and economic expertise jobs business development housing and public infrastructure Through an in depth examination of Business Improvement Districts and their managers we begin to see that the future of public administration might no longer be contained behind the walls of formal government with an increasing number of public administrators defining and creating public solutions to real life commercial problems This book is essential reading for all practicing urban and regional administrators and government officials as well as students studying public administration public management and urban and regional politics Trust Modeling and Management in Digital Environments: From Social Concept to System Development Yan, Zheng, 2010-01-31 This book investigates various definitions of trust and their characteristics in distributed systems and digital computing and details how to model and implement trust in a digital system Provided by publisher Social Trust and the Management of Risk George Cvetkovich, 2013-12-16 Social trust is a crucial issue to many aspects of modern society Policy makers continually aspire to winning it and corporations frequently run the risk of losing it The trust deficit raises vital questions and problems to which until recently there have been few answers or solutions Experts from both sides of the Atlantic explore the importance for trust of various influences from individual perceptions to organizational systems and consider the conditions involved in building or undermining trust Several authors examine practical hazard management issues including medical vaccination programmes and popular participation in pollution control and waste management as strategies for enhancing social trust This book provides insightful analysis for researchers and students of environmental and social sciences and is essential reading for those engaged in risk management in both the public and private sectors Why Trust Science? Naomi Oreskes, 2021-04-06 Why the social character of scientific knowledge makes it trustworthy Are doctors right when they tell us vaccines are safe Should we take climate experts at their word when they warn us about the perils of global warming Why should we trust science when so many of our political leaders don't Naomi Oreskes offers a bold and compelling defense of science revealing why the social character of scientific knowledge is its greatest strength and the greatest reason we can trust it Tracing the history and philosophy of science from the late nineteenth century to today this timely and provocative book features a new preface by Oreskes and critical responses by climate experts Ottmar Edenhofer and Martin Kowarsch political scientist Jon Krosnick philosopher of science Marc Lange and science historian Susan Lindee as well as a foreword by political theorist Stephen Macedo Networks, Trust and Social Capital Sokratis M. Koniordos, 2017-03-02 The concepts of social networks social capital and trust play an increasingly central role in the social sciences They have become indispensable conceptual tools for the analysis of post industrial late modern societies which are characterized by such features as the relative decline of formal hierarchies the development of flexible social arrangements in the sphere of production and the extreme mobility of capital This is the first book to study the interrelationships between these important concepts both theoretically and empirically Drawing on empirical investigations from a range of diverse European social contexts the contributors develop an economic sociology that builds on and extends established theoretical perspectives The book opens with an introduction to the theoretical ideas relating social capital to reciprocity trust and social networks in line with current debates The authors go on to discuss the concept of social embeddedness addressing the economic effects of social capital by examining the network and trust foundations of labour markets and investigating the structural limits of trusting networks They conclude with an exploration of the impact of networking and the functioning of trust and social capital on the economic arrangements and performance of nascent capitalist economies in post Communist Europe This thematically unified collection by a team of distinguished contributors from across Europe provides an innovative and distinctive contribution to an expanding area of research

Social Trust and the Management of Threatened and Endangered

Species George Cvetkovich,2002 Social trust the willingness to rely on those with formal responsibility to develop policies and make decisions facilitates effective management of environmental issues including wildlife management National polls suggest that the public trusts government agencies to solve environmental problems yet such trust is low or non-existent in areas of controversy such as the protection of threatened and endangered species This study explored the role of social trust in understanding views of threatened and endangered species management in the National Forests of southern California The 127 participants surveyed lived in or near a National Forest or were recreational and/or other users of the National Forest The results suggest that trust in Forest Service management of wildlife relates to perceived similarity between individual values regarding species protection and Forest Service values Participants who believe the Forest Service shares their values have a high trust those who believe the Forest Service does not share their values have a low trust The most trusting tend to believe that species protection should be the primary principle guiding forest management and that the Forest Service consistently operates according to these principles Those low in trust believe forest management should be based on the fulfillment of human needs they perceive that the Forest Service operates inconsistently according to their values The study suggests that social trust is a significant predictor of approval of species management practices
