Technology Learning And Innovation Experiences Of Newly Industrializing Economies:

Technology, Learning, and Innovation Linsu Kim, Richard R. Nelson, 2000-07-24 In this volume published in 2000 leading scholars analyze in a series of essays and commentaries how newly industrializing countries NICs particularly those in East Asia have transformed themselves from technologically backward and poor to relatively modern and affluent economies over the past thirty years The contributors provide interesting theoretical perspectives and offer insights into the process of technological progress at both the macro and micro levels in these countries The essays review how firms particularly those in electronics and automobiles have dynamically accumulated technological capabilities at the micro level how public policies have shaped the process of technological progress at the national level and what problems some of these countries face today at both levels In addition the volume provides a comparison of East Asian NICs with their Latin American counterparts The discussion also offers useful lessons for policies in other developing countries The Challenges of Technology and Economic Catch-up in Emerging Economies Jeong-Dong Lee, Keun Lee, Dirk Meissner, Slavo Radosevic, Nicholas Vonortas, 2021-06-24 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 International licence It is free to read at Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations Innovation is a pivotal driving force behind economic growth Technological capability deepens and diversifies industrial activity which fundamentally enhances growth potential Consequently failure to build effective technological capability can lead to slow long term economic growth This book synthesizes and interprets existing knowledge on technology upgrading failures in order to better understand the challenges of technology upgrading in emerging economies The objective is to bring together diverse evidence on three major dimensions of technology upgrading paths of technology upgrading structural changes in the nature of technology upgrading and the issues of technology transfer and technology upgrading Knowledge on these three dimensions is synthesized at the firm sector and macro levels across different countries and world macroregions Compared to the challenges and uncertainties facing emerging economies our understanding of technology upgrading is sparse unsystematic and scattered The recent growth slowdown in many emerging economies often known as the middle income trap has reinforced the importance of understanding the technology upgrading challenges they experience While our understanding of these issues from the 1980s and 1990s is relatively more systematised the more recent changes that took place during the globalization and proliferation of global value chains and the effects of the 2008 financial crisis have not been explored and compared synthetically The current effects of COVID 19 geopolitical struggles and the growing concern around environmental sustainability add significant complexity to an already problematic situation The time is ripe to take stock of our existing knowledge on processes of technology upgrading in emerging economies and make further inroads in research on this crucial issue Advancing Development G. Mavrotas, A. Shorrocks, 2007-01-05 This book reflects on current thinking in development economics and on what may happen over the next two decades As well as studying development economics in retrospect the volume explores the current debates and challenges and looks forward at the problems that affect the global capacity to achieve the Millennium Development Goals

Strategic Coupling Henry Wai-chung Yeung, 2016-04-22 In Strategic Coupling Henry Wai chung Yeung examines economic development and state firm relations in East Asia focusing in particular on South Korea Taiwan and Singapore As a result of the massive changes of the last twenty five years new explanations must be found for the economic success and industrial transformation in the region State assisted startups and incubator firms in East Asia have become major players in the manufacture of products with a global reach Taiwan s Hon Hai Precision has assembled more than 500 million iPhones for instance and South Korea s Samsung provides the iPhone s semiconductor chips and retina displays Drawing on extensive interviews with top executives and senior government officials Yeung argues that since the late 1980s many East Asian firms have outgrown their home states and are no longer dependent on state support as a result the developmental state has lost much of its capacity to steer and direct industrialization We cannot read the performance of national firms as a direct outcome of state action Yeung calls for a thorough renovation of the still dominant view that states are the primary engine of industrial transformation He stresses action by national firms and traces various global production networks to incorporate both firm specific activities and the international political economy He identifies two sets of dynamics in these national global articulations known as strategic coupling coevolution in the confluence of state firm and global production networks and the various strategies pursued by East Asian firms to attain competitive positions in the global marketplace

Small Country Innovation Systems Charles Edquist, Leif Hommen, 2009-01-01 What are the challenges that small countries face concerning innovation and what are the effects of globalization on their innovation systems In this very interesting rich and timely book Edquist and Hommen compare ten different small national innovation systems from the Asia Pacific and Northern Europe that are rather advanced in their development The answers that the authors give are convincing and relate not only to the unique characteristics of each national system that shapes innovative activity but also to some commonalities that exist across these countries Franco Malerba Bocconi University Italy This major book presents case studies of ten small country national systems of innovation NSIs in Europe and Asia namely Denmark Finland Hong Kong Ireland the Netherlands Norway Singapore South Korea Sweden and Taiwan These cases have been carefully selected as examples of success within the context of globalization and as new economies where competition is increasingly based on innovation To facilitate comparative analysis the ten studies follow a common structure informed by an activities based approach to describing and analysing NSIs which addresses the critical issues of globalization and the consequences of innovation for economic performance The final chapter compares fast growth and slow growth countries concentrating on issues of innovation policy The results illustrate the usefulness of an activities based approach to studying NSIs point to distinctive national roles within an increasingly differentiated international division of labour and address the key themes of selectivity and coordination in innovation policy This valuable book presents one of the most significant comprehensive and comparative country studies of NSIs in the last decade It will have great import and should be widely read by every serious student and scholar of innovation studies
