Abstract - The energy demand of the world has become unbridled in the past years and is augmenting by leaps and bounds. With increase in energy demand, the conventional sources of energy (fossil fuels, nuclear) are encumbered with monumental pressure and hence, the unremitting use of it leads to dearth of fossil fuels. This has provoked an extensive research into the area of non-conventional energy sources like hydro, wind, thermal energy, etc. Out of these, the wind energy is being discussed in this paper. Wind energy has a lot of potential and advantages but its utilization is restricted due to its irregularity, geographical conditions and its availability. Our primary goal is to suggest an idea that can surmount these conundrums and utilize the wind energy to its maximum extent. This paper deals with the wind energy that can be derived from the wasted wind energy from industrial exhaust fans. The wind force from an exhaust fan can drive a small windmill and the energy generated from it will be stored in energy storage unit. The power stored in the battery can be transmitted into ac with the help of an inverter and then it can be supplied to the load and hence, this wasted power from exhaust fan can be utilized to meet the growing energy demand.

Key Words: Wind power, exhaust fan, wind turbine, storage.

1. INTRODUCTION

Economic growth and energy demand are intertwined. Developed countries are known as the major users of energy globally, however, most of the increasing demand will occur in developing countries, where populations, economic activities and improvements in quality of life are growing most rapidly. Global energy consumption in both developed and developing countries is expected to double or more by the year 2040 ("The Outlook for Energy: A view to 2040," 2018). Currently, the world relies on coal, crude oil and natural gas for energy generation. However, energy crisis such as climate change and depletion of oil (which leads to the oil price inflation) becomes one of the main problems to all countries.

For that reason, generating energy from renewable sources remain relevant to be implemented and explored. To meet the energy demand without damaging the planet, the energy generation from renewable sources becomes more widespread. It is proven that the renewable energy sources available can meet many times the present world energy demand, thus their potentials are enormous. However, most of the current technologies on renewable energy generation are still at an early stage of development and not technically mature. Thus, there is an urgent call for researchers and innovators to come out with the best possible solution for clean energy.

1.1 Problem Statement

In order to reduce the dependence on fossil fuels for energy generation, renewable energy plays a critical role in reducing the greenhouse gases emission leading the world toward fossil fuel independence. Wind energy is the second biggest source of renewable energy after solar energy. It is the fastest growing RE source in the world with an annual growth rate of 30%. The share of wind energy is 14% at the global scale on the total mid-term renewable energy resources potential and this value reflects its maturity in technology. Many researchers have proposed the ideas of wind energy systems that can possibly be installed in urban settings for local energy generation. These systems feature additional augmentation systems, either utilizing the building geometry or retrofitted onto the building or a combination of these. However, the uncertainty in wind energy is the main problem in matching the increasing demand for renewable energy.

The operation of wind power systems is susceptible to changing wind patterns resulting from climate change. Thus, an efficient method is strongly demanded to harness the uncertain wind energy. Besides turning to available alternative resources for generating clean energy, energy recovery from wastes such as heat sink, exhaust air, etc. also have a great potential in helping to address the global energy issue. Energy saving and emission reducing technologies consist of three types, i.e. resource conservation, energy economizing and environment-friendly. The available wind source can be divided into natural wind and man-made wind. The man-made wind is considered as unnatural that is available from man-made systems or operations such as cooling tower, exhaust air, etc. The high-speed, consistent and predictable wind produced by the system is good to be recovered into a useful form of energy. Thus, this research investigates the concept of energy recovery systems on cooling towers by using commercially available wind turbines. It is an energy recovery system which may reduce the energy demand by generating energy from waste. This system enables the low wind speed countries especially in urban areas to harness wind energy from exhaust air resources which are consistent and predictable.
