Television And Everyday Life:

Television and Everyday Life Roger Silverstone, 1994 Television is a central dimension of our everyday lives and yet its meaning and its potency varies according to our individual circumstances Its power will always be mediated by the social and cultural worlds which we inhabit In Television and Everyday Life Roger Silverstone explores the enigma of television and how it has found its way so profoundly and intimately into the fabric of our everyday lives His investigation unravels its emotional and cognitive spatial temporal and political significance Drawing on a wide range of literature from psychoanalysis to sociology and from geography to cultural studies Roger Silverstone constructs a theory of the medium which locates it centrally within the multiple realities and discourses of everyday life Television emerges from these arguments as the fascinating complex and contradictory medium that it is but in the process many of the myths that surround it are exploded Television and Everyday Life presents a radical new approach to the medium one that both challenges received wisdoms and offers a compellingly original view of the place of television in everyday life

Television, Audiences and Everyday Life Matt Briggs, 2009-10-16 Television is commonplace in developed societies an unremarkable and routine part of most people's everyday lives but also the subject of continued concern from academia and beyond But what do we really know about television the ways that we watch it the meanings that are made and its relationship to ideology democracy culture and power Television Audiences and Everyday Life draws on an extensive body of audience research to get behind this seemingly simple activity Written in a clear and accessible style key audience studies are presented in ways that illuminate critical debates and concepts in cultural and media studies Key topics and case studies include News debate and the public sphere Reality television talk shows and media ethics Soap opera play and gossip The uses of television in the home Television identity and globalization Textual analysis discourse and semiotics Each chapter makes a compelling case for the importance of audience research in our thinking about television texts The case studies introduce important new terms in the study of television such as play semiosis and modality while also throwing new light on familiar terms such as decoding ideology and the public sphere Television Audiences and Everyday Life is essential reading for undergraduate students on media cultural studies and sociology courses or anybody who wants to understand television its genres and their place in everyday life

Epic / everyday Sarah Cardwell, Jonathan Bignell, Lucy Fife Donaldson, 2023-05-30 An exciting new strand in The Television Series the Moments in Television collections celebrate the power and artistry of television whilst interrogating key critical concepts in television scholarship Each Moments book is organised around a provocative binary theme Epic everyday explores the presence within television of the epic and the everyday It argues that attention to ideas of the epic and notions of the everyday can illuminate television programmes in new ways The book explores an eclectic range of TV fictions including Game of Thrones Lost and Dr Who Contributors from diverse perspectives come together to expand and enrich the kind of close analysis most commonly found in television aesthetics Sustained detailed programme analyses are sensitively framed within historical technological institutional cultural creative and art historical contexts Television George Comstock, Erica Scharrer, 1999-04-15 Television What's On Who's Watching and What It Means presents a comprehensive examination of the role of television in one's life. The emphasis is on data collected over the past two decades pointing to an increasing and in some instances a surprising influence of the medium. Television is not only watched but its messages are attended to and well understood. There is no shame in spending hours in front of the set in fact people over estimate the time they spend viewing. Television advertising no longer persuades it sells by creating a burst of emotional liking for the commercial. The emphases of television news determine not only what voters think about but also the presidential candidate they expect to support on election day. Children and teenagers who watch a great deal of television perform poorly on standardized achievement tests and among the reasons are the usurpation of time spent learning to read and the discouragement of book reading. Television violence frightens some children and excites others but its foremost effect is to increase aggressive behavior that sometimes spills over into seriously harmful antisocial behavior. Incorporates social psychology political science sociology child development and the growing field of communications. Presents tables and graphs clarifying theories and linking sets of data. Paints concise portraits of the role of television in entertainment politics and child rearing. Contains background for dozens of lectures and articles. Contains a comprehensive bibliography of more than 1000 citations many recent.

Science, Television and Everyday Life Roger Silverstone, 1987 Ordinary Television Frances Bonner, 2003-02-05 Most cultural analysis focuses on the spectacular and the unusual. Frances Bonner has done us a great service by insisting on and demonstrating the importance of everyday TV. Ordinary Television breaks genuinely new ground. Toby Miller New York University. In this book Frances Bonner provides a distinctive angle on a key area of research and teaching across media and cultural studies: the content of television and the relations between television genres and audiences. Hitherto most books on television have focused on drama or news and current affairs. In other words they tend to ignore ordinary television lifestyle programmes and reality TV just the sort of programmes which increasingly dominate the schedules. In Ordinary Television Frances Bonner makes a distinctive argument for regarding these disparate shows as a whole. By examining a substantial range of these programmes Frances Bonner uncovers their shared characteristics especially through a consideration of the dominant and disguised discourses which pervade them. In addition the comparative nature of her study enables the author to launch a powerful critique of conventional theories in relation to the globalization of television. This book will be invaluable reading for anyone interested in television and the media in general.
