Historical Dictionary of Australian and New Zealand Cinema Karina Aveyard,Albert Moran,Errol Vieth,2017-12-26 Filmmakers have honed their skills and many have achieved critical and popular success at home and abroad as have actors and other crew American filmmakers and companies have found it cheaper to make films in Australia because wages and salaries are lower tax rebates have been attractive and the expertise in most areas of filmmaking is comparable to that of anywhere in the world At the same time Australian audiences still enjoy watching Australian films making some of them profitable even if this is a small profit when considered in Hollywood terms New Zealand filmmakers cast and crew have shown that they are equal to the world s best in making films with international themes while other films have shown that the world is interested in New Zealand narratives and settings Increased support for Maori filmmakers and stories has had a significant impact on production levels and on the diversity of stories that now reach the screen It has also helped create more viable career paths for those who continue to be based in their home country This second edition of Historical Dictionary of Australian and New Zealand Cinema contains a chronology an introduction and an extensive bibliography The dictionary section has over 700 cross referenced entries on leading films as well as many directors writers actors and producers It also covers early pioneers film companies genres and government bodies The Adaptation Industry Simone

Murray, 2012-03-12 Adaptation constitutes the driving force of contemporary culture with stories adapted across an array of media formats. However, adaptation studies has been concerned almost exclusively with textual analysis in particular with compare and contrast studies of individual novel and film pairings. This has left almost completely unexamined crucial questions of how adaptations come to be made, what are the industries with the greatest stake in making them and who the decision makers are in the adaptation process. The Adaptation Industry reimagines adaptation not as an abstract process but as a material industry. It presents the adaptation industry as a cultural economy of six interlocking institutions: stakeholders and decision makers all engaged in the actual business of adapting texts; authors, agents, publishers, book prize committees, scriptwriters and screen producers and distributors. Through trading in intellectual property rights to cultural works, these six nodal points in the adaptation network are tightly interlinked with success for one party potentially auguring for success in other spheres. But marked rivalries between these institutional forces also exist with competition characterizing every aspect of the adaptation process. This book constructs an overdue sociology of contemporary literary adaptation, never losing sight of the material and institutional dimensions of this powerful process.     Myth & Meaning Peter Malone, 2001. Do film directors make the same film over and over again? What distinguishes Australian films from those of Hollywood? Peter Malone seeks answers to these questions as he explores the spiritual and moral values that underlie the work of a selection of Australian film makers. Culled from almost a hundred taped interviews, this book is the voice of Australian directors.     Media Review Digest C.
