The Body in Flannery O'Connor's Fiction Donald E. Hardy, 2007 This is a reading of physical obsession in O'Connor through linguistic and literary techniques This work extends the innovative thesis that it is possible to grasp the central struggle between spirit and matter in O'Connor through a close quantitative examination of the interactions of grammatical voice and physical bodies in her texts Bridging literary theory and linguistics Hardy demonstrates that the many constructions in which the body parts of O'Connor's characters are foregrounded either as subjects or objects are grammatical manipulations of semantic variations on what linguists deem the middle voice roughly indicating that the subject is acting upon himself or herself Hardy combines computational and linguistic methodology to provide a productive approach to understanding O'Connor's use of the body and its parts in her explorations of the sacramental and the grotesque Linguistic analysis of grammatical middle voice is coupled with quantitative analysis of body part words and the collocations in which they appear to present a new point of entrance to understanding O'Connor's stylistic manipulations of the body as central to the rift between spirit and matter Through this method of reading O'Connor Hardy makes a valuable contribution to the growing body of work that is introducing linguistic terminology and concepts into literary studies

The Experimental Psychology of Beauty C.W. Valentine, 2015-06-05 Originally published in 1962 the experimental study of aesthetics was a field particularly associated with the name of C.W. Valentine who in this book provided a critical review of research carried out since the end of the nineteenth century principally by British and American psychologists The investigations described many of them conducted by the author are concerned with individual responses to what is commonly regarded as beautiful in painting music and poetry an important distinction being made between the perception of objects as beautiful as opposed to pleasing The reactions of children and adults and of people having different ethnic and social backgrounds are explored in a variety of experiments dealing with specific elements including colour form and balance in painting musical intervals discord harmony melody and tempo and rhythm metre imagery and associations in classical and romantic poetry Other experiments seek to disclose the temperamental and attitudinal factors underlying individual differences in the judgement and appreciation of specific works of art Of particular interest are the studies of responses to modern paintings poems and musical compositions The findings throw light on the development of discrimination and taste and suggest the possibility of some common factor in the appreciation of these three arts It was felt that critics as well as psychologists and aestheticians would find much to encourage reflection and to stimulate further research The Reflex ,1928
