The Hidden Reality

Yaakov Ben Mhaaila, 2020-01-31 The Hidden Reality is a Kabbalistic Targum or Translation of various Books from both the Old and New Testaments in poetic form As the Kabbalah is Hebrew in its nature I have decided to title these poems in that vernacular they are subtitled in English I have studied the Kabbalah for most of my adult life and there s still so much to learn from it as a source of knowledge In Hebrew the ancient Rabbins referred to the Kabbalah as Ha Aur Nuthan The Giver of Light and as such it is Indeed Chebari it is a veritable reservoir of spiritual enlightenment and answers the many unanswered questions Like for example the mystery concerning death and the resurrection or regeneration of the soul from the dead seed body is this a reality or a religious myth Well when you consider the fact that all seeds must die before they can regenerate and enter into their higher life forms it obviously includes the organic seed body of man The three main objectives of this opus are 1 To explain the natural reality of the resurrection of the soul and its entry into that higher state of consciousness 2 To clarify the concept of hell does it actually exist as a place and if so where is it located 3 To scripturally eradicate the Jewish and Christian misconceptions concerning the Meshiach his true spiritual identity and why he had to suffer the ignominy of Golgotha But you can discover these hidden truths for yourself by turning these pages and reading Ha Metziaoth Tzephon

Latency and Distortion of Electromagnetic Trackers for Augmented Reality Systems Henry Himberg, Yuichi Motai, 2022-05-31 Augmented reality AR systems are often used to superimpose virtual objects or information on a scene to improve situational awareness Delays in the display system or inaccurate registration of objects destroy the sense of immersion a user experiences when using AR systems AC electromagnetic trackers are ideal for these applications when combined with head orientation prediction to compensate for display system delays Unfortunately these trackers do not perform well in environments that contain conductive or ferrous materials due to magnetic field distortion without expensive calibration techniques In our work we focus on both the prediction and distortion compensation aspects of this application developing a small footprint predictive filter for display lag compensation and a simplified calibration system for AC magnetic trackers In the first phase of our study we presented a novel method of tracking angular head velocity from quaternion orientation using an Extended Kalman Filter in both single model DQKF and multiple model MMDQ implementations In the second phase of our work we have developed a new method of mapping the magnetic field generated by the tracker without high precision measurement equipment This method uses simple fixtures with multiple sensors in a rigid geometry to collect magnetic field data in the tracking volume We have developed a new algorithm to process the collected data and generate a map of the magnetic field distortion that can be used to compensate distorted measurement data
