The Glenbuchat Ballads David Buchan, James Moreira, 2011-01-05 Sometime in the early nineteenth century most likely in the year 1818 the Reverend Robert Scott minister of the parish of Glenbuchat in Aberdeenshire Scotland compiled a collection of traditional ballads that until now has not been published Most of the ballad collections produced during the Scottish Romantic Revival were eventually anthologized in Francis James Child's seminal English and Scottish Popular Ballads five volumes 1882-96 Yet the Glenbuchat manuscripts containing sixty-eight ballads in four folio volumes were not included in Child's volumes The complete work only came to light in 1949 when it was donated to the Special Collections of the Aberdeen University Library by a descendent of the original compiler Scott did not give the precise locations of where he collected his ballads or name the performers but the texts are unique and appear to have been drawn from oral sources As such the ballads reveal a great deal about the nature of traditional music at the time they were collected The Glenbuchat Ballads were originally prepared for publication by David Buchan one of the leading ballad scholars of the twentieth century Upon Buchan's death his former student James Moreira took up and completed his work and wrote the detailed introductory essay and annotations in this volume

Textual Scholarship and the Material Book Wim Van Mierlo, 2007 In the last decades the emphasis in textual scholarship has moved onto creation production process collaboration onto the material manifestations of a work onto multiple rather than single versions onto reception and book history Textual scholarship now includes not only textual editing but any form of scholarship that looks at the materiality of text of writing of reading and of the book The essays in this collection explore many questions about methodology and theory arising from this widening scope of textual scholarship The range of texts discussed from Sanskrit epic via Medieval Latin commentary through English and Scottish Ballads to the plays of Samuel Beckett and the stories of Guimarães Rosa testifies to the vigour of the discipline The range of texts is matched by a range of approach from theoretical discussion of how text happens to analysis of issues of book design and censorship the connections between literary and textual studies exploration of the links between reception and commodification in George Eliot and between information theory and paratext Through this diversity of subject and approach a common theme emerges the need to look further for common ground from which to continue the debate from a comparative perspective
