Modernism and the Aesthetics of Violence Paul Sheehan, 2013-06-24 The notion that violence can give rise to art and that art can serve as an agent of violence is a dominant feature of modernist literature In this study Paul Sheehan traces the modernist fascination with violence to the middle decades of the nineteenth century when certain French and English writers sought to celebrate dissident sexualities and stylized criminality Sheehan presents a panoramic view of how the aesthetics of transgression gradually mutates into an infatuation with destruction and upheaval identifying the First World War as the event through which the modernist aesthetic of violence crystallizes By engaging with exemplary modernists such as Joyce Conrad Eliot and Pound as well as lesser known writers including Gautier Sacher Masoch Wyndham Lewis and others Sheehan shows how artworks so often associated with creative well being and communicative self expression can be reoriented toward violent and bellicose ends Poetry in the Museums of Modernism Catherine E. Paul, 2002 How modernist writers experienced the Louvre the British Museum and the Museum of Natural History and how these museums influenced their writing
