The Limits Of Multiculturalism:

The Limits of Multiculturalism, 1999 In the early nineteenth century the profession of American anthropology emerged as European Americans James Fenimore Cooper and Henry Rowe Schoolcraft among others began to make a living by studying the Indian. Less well known are the AmerIndians who at that time were writing and publishing ethnographic accounts of their own people. By bringing to the fore this literature of autoethnography and revealing its role in the forming of anthropology as we know it, this book searches out and shakes the foundations of American cultural studies. Scott Michaelsen shows cultural criticism to be at an impasse, trapped by tradition even in its attempts to get beyond tradition. With this dilemma in mind, he takes us back to anthropology's nineteenth century roots to show us a network of nearly unknown AmerIndian anthropological writers: David Cusick, Jane Johnston, William Apess, Ely S. Parker, Peter Jones, George Copway, and John Rollin Ridge, working contemporaneously with the major white anthropologists who wrote on Indian topics. Michaelsen tests present day theses about difference in light of these AmerIndian voices and concludes that multiculturalism never will locate critical differences from Western or white writing since these traditions are inextricably bound together. The Limits of Multiculturalism is a first step in finding the proper anthropological grounds for questions about cultures in the Americas and in coming to terms with the co-invention of anthropology by AmerIndians with the fact that Indian voices are lodged at the heart of anthropology.

The Limits of Liberal Multiculturalism A. Vitikainen, 2015-07-07 The Limits of Liberal Multiculturalism provides a timely analysis of some of the weaknesses as well as the successes of the liberal multicultural project. It also takes a step forward by developing a pluralist individual-centred approach to allocating minority rights in practice. Racism, Eh? Charmaine Nelson, Camille Antoinette Nelson, 2004 Racism, Eh? is the first publication that examines racism within the broad Canadian context. This anthology brings together some of the visionaries who are seeking to illuminate the topics of race and racism in Canada through the analysis of historical and contemporary issues which address race and racism as both material and psychic phenomena. Fundamentally interdisciplinary in nature, this text will be an invaluable resource for undergraduate and graduate students, academics studying or practicing within the Humanities and the Social Sciences, and anyone seeking information on what has been a little explored and poorly understood Canadian issue.

Everyday Multiculturalism in/across Asia Jessica Walton, Anita Harris, Koichi Iwabuchi, 2021-05-13 What does it mean to bring Asia into conversation with current literature on everyday multiculturalism? This book focuses on the empirical, theoretical, and methodological considerations of using an everyday multiculturalism approach to explore the ordinary ways people live together in difference in the Asian region while also drawing attention to increasing trans-Asian mobilities. The chapters in this collection encompass interdisciplinary research undertaken in Australia, Hong Kong, Malaysia, Singapore, and South Korea that explores some core aspects of everyday multiculturalism as it plays out in and across Asia. These include an increase in intraregional movements and especially labour mobility which demands regard for the experiences of migrants.

from Burma China Nepal The Philippines and India negotiations of cultural diversity in nations where a multi ethnic citizenry is formally recognised through predominantly pluralist models and or where national belonging is highly racialized and intercultural contestation against in some cases the backdrop of a newly emergent multicultural policy environment The book challenges and reinvigorates discussions around the relative transferability of an everyday multiculturalism framework to Asia including concepts such as super diversity conviviality and everyday racism and the importance of close attention to how people navigate differences and commonalities in local and trans local contexts This book will be of interest to academics and researchers studying migration multiculturalism ethnic and racial studies and to advanced students of Sociology Political Science and Public Policy It was originally published as a special issue of Ethnic and Racial Studies Rethinking Multiculturalism Bhikhu C. Parekh, 2002 Bhikhu Parekh argues for a pluralist perspective on cultural diversity Writing from both within the liberal tradition and outside of it as a critic he challenges what he calls the moral monism of much of traditional moral philosophy including contemporary liberalism its tendency to assert that only one way of life or set of values is worthwhile and to dismiss the rest as misguided or false He defends his pluralist perspective both at the level of theory and in subtle nuanced analyses of recent controversies Thus he offers careful and clear accounts of why cultural differences should be respected and publicly affirmed why the separation of church and state cannot be used to justify the separation of religion and politics and why the initial critique of Salman Rushdie before a Fatwa threatened his life deserved more serious attention than it received Rejecting naturalism which posits that humans have a relatively fixed nature and that culture is an incidental and culturalism which posits that they are socially and culturally constructed with only a minimal set of features in common he argues for a dialogic interplay between human commonalities and cultural differences This will allow Parekh argues genuinely balanced and thoughtful compromises on even the most controversial cultural issues in the new multicultural world in which we live The Ashgate Research Companion to Multiculturalism Duncan Ivison, 2016-03-23 The Ashgate Research Companion to Multiculturalism brings together a collection of new essays by leading and emerging scholars in the humanities and social sciences on some of the key issues facing multiculturalism today It provides a comprehensive and cutting edge treatment of this important and hotly contested field offering scholars and students a clear account of the leading theories and critiques of multiculturalism that have developed over the past twenty five years as well as a sense of the challenges facing multiculturalism in the future Key leading scholars including James Bohman Barbara Arneil Avigail Eisenberg Ghassan Hage and Paul Patton discuss multiculturalism in different cultural and national contexts and across a range of disciplinary approaches In addition to contributions Duncan Ivison also provides a comprehensive Introduction which surveys the field and offers an extensive guide to further reading This is a key volume for anyone interested in multiculturalism and its political premise Multiculturalism and Religious Identity Sonia Sikka, Lori G. Beaman, 2014-06-01 How and to what extent can religion be included within commitments to multiculturalism Multiculturalism and Religious Identity addresses this question by examining the political recognition and management of religious identity in Canada and India. In multicultural policy practice and literature, religion has until recently not been included within broader discussions of multiculturalism, perhaps due to worries of potential for conflict with secularism. This collection undertakes a contemporary analysis of how the Canadian and Indian states each approach religious diversity through social and political policies as well as how religion and secularism meet both philosophically and politically in contested public space. Although Canada and India have differing political and religious histories leading to different articulations of multiculturalism, religious diversity and secularism, both countries share a commitment to ensuring fair treatment for the different religious communities they include. Combining broader theoretical and normative reflections with close case studies, Multiculturalism and Religious Identity leads the way to addressing these timely issues in the Canadian and Indian contexts.

Multiculturalism Michael Murphy, 2013-03-01. What is multiculturalism and what are the different theories used to justify it? Are multicultural policies a threat to liberty and equality? Can liberal democracies accommodate minority groups without sacrificing peace and stability? In this clear introduction to the subject, Michael Murphy explores these questions and critically assesses multiculturalism from the standpoint of political philosophy and political practice. The book explores the origins and contemporary usage of the concept of multiculturalism in the context of debates about citizenship, egalitarian justice and conflicts between individual and collective rights. The ideas of some of the most influential champions and critics of multiculturalism, including Will Kymlicka, Chandran Kukathas, Susan Okin and Brian Barry, are also clearly explained and evaluated. Key themes include the tension between multiculturalism and gender equality, cultural relativism and the limits of liberal toleration, and the impact of multicultural policies on social cohesion and ethnic conflict. Murphy also surveys the legal practices and policies enacted to accommodate multiculturalism, drawing on examples from the Americas, Australasia, Europe, Asia and the Middle East. Multiculturalism: A Critical Introduction is an ideal starting point for anyone coming to the topic for the first time, as well as those already familiar with some of the key issues.

Law, Rhetoric and Irony in the Formation of Canadian Civil Culture Michael Dorland, Maurice René Charland, 2002-01-01. In Rhetoric, Irony and Law in the Formation of Canadian Civil Culture, Michael Dorland and Maurice Charland examine how, over the roughly 400-year period since the encounter of First Peoples with Europeans in North America, rhetorical or discursive fields took form in politics and constitution-making, in the formation of a public sphere and in education and language. The study looks at how these fields changed over time within the French regime, the British regime and in Canada since 1867, and how they converged through trial and error into a Canadian civil culture. The authors establish a triangulation of fields of discourse: formed by law as a technical discourse system, rhetoric as a public discourse system, and irony as a means of accessing the public realm as the key pillars upon which a civil culture in Canada took form, in order to scrutinize the process of creating a civil culture. By presenting case studies ranging from the legal implications of the transition from French to

English law to the continued importance of the Louis Riel case and trial the authors provide detailed analyses of how communication practices form a common institutional culture As scholars of communication and rhetoric Dorland and Charland have written a challenging examination of the history of Canadian governance and the central role played by legal and other discourses in the formation of civil culture Blackness and Modernity Cecil Foster, 2007-05-28 In Blackness and Modernity Foster traces the main philosophical anthropological sociological and mythological arguments that support views of modernity as a failed quest for whiteness He outlines how these views were implemented as part of a world history and shows how Canada became the first country to officially reject this approach by adopting multiculturalism
