The Lancashire Witches William Harrison Ainsworth, 2011-07 The trials of the Pendle witches in 1612 are among the most famous witch trials in English history and some of the best recorded of the 17th century The twelve accused lived in the area around Pendle Hill in Lancashire and were charged with the murders of ten people by the use of witchcraft All but two were tried at Lancaster Assizes in August 1612 along with the Samlesbury witches and others in a series of trials that have become known as the Lancashire witch trials One was tried at York Assizes during July 1612 and another died in prison Of the eleven individuals who went to trial nine women and two men ten were found guilty and executed by hanging and one was found not guilty Six of the Pendle witches came from one of two families each headed by a female in her eighties at the time of the trials Elizabeth Southern's daughter Elizabeth Device and her grandchildren James and Alison Device Anne Whittle and her daughter Anne Redferne The others accused were Jane Bulcock and her son John Bulcock Alice Nutter Katherine Hewitt Alice Gray and Jennet Preston The outbreaks of witchcraft in and around Pendle may demonstrate the extent to which people could make a living by posing as witches Many of the allegations resulted from accusations that members of the Demdike and Chattox families made against each other perhaps because they were in competition both trying to make a living from healing begging and extortion
