The Language Of New Media Leonardos:

The Language of New Media Lev Manovich, 2002-02-22 A stimulating eclectic account of new media that finds its origins in old media particularly the cinema In this book Lev Manovich offers the first systematic and rigorous theory of new media He places new media within the histories of visual and media cultures of the last few centuries He discusses new media's reliance on conventions of old media such as the rectangular frame and mobile camera and shows how new media works create the illusion of reality address the viewer and represent space He also analyzes categories and forms unique to new media such as interface and database Manovich uses concepts from film theory art history literary theory and computer science and also develops new theoretical constructs such as cultural interface spatial montage and cinematography The theory and history of cinema play a particularly important role in the book Among other topics Manovich discusses parallels between the histories of cinema and of new media digital cinema screen and montage in cinema and in new media and historical ties between avant garde film and new media

Algorithms Tobias Matzner, 2023-10-02 Algorithms Technology Culture Politics develops a relational situated approach to algorithms It takes a middle ground between theories that give the algorithm a singular and stable meaning in using it as a central analytic category for contemporary society and theories that dissolve the term into the details of empirical studies The book discusses algorithms in relation to hardware and material conditions code data and subjects such as users programmers but also data doubles The individual chapters bridge critical discussions on bias exclusion or responsibility with the necessary detail on the contemporary state of information technology The examples include state of the art applications of machine learning such as self driving cars and large language models such as GPT The book will be of interest for everyone engaging critically with algorithms particularly in the social sciences media studies STS political theory or philosophy With its broad scope it can serve as a high level introduction that picks up and builds on more than two decades of critical research on algorithms

Multimodality and Performance Carla Fernandes, 2016-08-17 The chapters in this book are the product of an international conference organised in Lisbon to mark the closure of the TKB project A Transmedia Knowledge Base for Performing Arts Under the title Multimodal Communication Language Performance and Digital Media this conference provided a forum for researchers and artists from different research fields interested in the study and documentation of the performing arts The book offers contributions on issues of multimodality in human interaction and performance embodied cognition and metaphor gesture studies video annotation for creative processes and performance and digital media

The Routledge International Handbook of Creative Learning Julian Sefton-Green, Pat Thomson, Ken Jones, Liora Bresler, 2011-07-15 The concept of creative learning extends far beyond Arts based learning or the development of individual creativity It covers a range of processes and initiatives throughout the world that share common values systems and practices aimed at making learning more creative This applies at individual classroom or whole school level always with the aim of fully realising young people's potential Until now there has been no single text bringing together the significant literature that explores the dimensions of creative learning despite the work of artists in schools and the development of a cadre of creative teaching and learning specialists. Containing a mixture of newly commissioned chapters, reprints and updated versions of previous publications, this book brings together major theorists and current research. Comprising of key readings in creative education, it will stand as a uniquely authoritative text that will appeal to those involved in initial and continuing teacher education as well as research academics and policy specialists. Sections include a general introduction to the field of creative learning, arts learning traditions with sub sections on discrete art forms such as drama and visual art, accounts of practice from artist teacher partnerships, whole school change and reforms, curriculum change, assessment, evaluative case studies of impact and effect, global studies of policy change around creative learning.

The Age of Promiscuity Doru Pop, 2018-11-15 This book presents an original and engaging look at contemporary popular culture, opening with the provocative idea that this is a day and age of complete exhaustion of ideas, images, stories and myths. Questioning the effects of content recycling in cinema and other media, the author further elaborates on the repurposing of cultural junk, the reassembling of narratives and myths. The thought provoking hypothesis proposed in this research is that we have entered an age of cultural promiscuity. By analyzing the mutations of myth making practices and connecting them with larger cultural manifestations, the author explains these transformations as integral to the development of a myth illogical imagination. Cinematic and mythological representations in mainstream Hollywood films have reached a point of amalgamation with no return, which marks the beginning of a fourth age of representations where signs and meanings are manifested in illogical permutations. This is more explicit in films that commingle aliens, cowboys, undead American presidents and zombie nazis joining together in the same narrative, ghosts, werewolves and vampires aggregating disjointed storylines and historical fake facts, all coalesced in an orgy of empty burlesque and infantile masquerades. This interdisciplinary research combines cultural studies, film criticism, art and myth interpretations, bringing into the debate multiple concepts from related fields such as critical theory and media criticism. The book also opens up to innovative approaches from a wide array of academic disciplines, offering researchers, students and those fascinated by the transformations happening in contemporary cinema, an interpretative tool based on a revised dialectic approach. The conclusion is that we are now victims of a zombie semiotics. Meaning making in contemporary culture, politics and aesthetics is dominated by a process of incessant desecration of significations specific to the total mishmash of representations analyzed here.

Theses on the Metaphors of Digital-Textual History Martin Paul Eve, 2024-07-16 Digital spaces are saturated with metaphor; we have pages, sites, mice and windows. Yet in the world of digital textuality, these metaphors no longer function as we might expect. Martin Paul Eve calls attention to the digital textual metaphors that condition our experience of digital space and traces their history as they interact with physical cultures. Eve posits that digital textual metaphors move through three life phases. Initially, they are descriptive. Then, they encounter a moment of fracture or rupture.

Finally they go on to have a prescriptive life of their own that conditions future possibilities for our text environments even when the metaphors have become untethered from their original intent Why is whitespace white Was the digital page always a foregone conclusion Over a series of theses Eve addresses these and other questions in order to understand the moments when digital textual metaphors break and to show us how it is that our textual softwares become locked into paradigms that no longer make sense Contributing to book history literary studies new media studies and material textual studies Theses on the Metaphors of Digital Textual History provides generative insights into the metaphors that define our digital worlds
