RHK MagnaCut is 60-61HRC. This was the decided range after discussion with both Peter's Heat Treat and Niagara (the maker of the steel). We actually spoke with some of the higher ups at Niagara this last Blade Show and they just had a meeting that day with Larrin Thomas (the designer and creator of the steel) and said they had come to the conclusion that where we are running it is great for toughness and anything above 63HRC is outside what the steel was designed for. In fact, they said you are far better off running it on the lower end of the range than going above 63. Not to mention Peter's Heat Treat has also told us not to take them that high. We have the maker of the steel, designer of the steel, and one of the best heat treaters in the industry saying not to take them past 63 and that 60-61 is optimal for toughness, therefore we are going to listen to them. We are ta... See more
