legal challenges to censorship at the state and local levels Freedom of the Screen chronicles both the evolution of judicial attitudes toward film restriction and the plight of the individuals who fought for the right to deliver provocative and relevant movies to American audiences The path to cinematic freedom was marked with both achievements and roadblocks from the establishment of the Production Code Administration which effectively eradicated political films after 1934 to the landmark cases over films such as The Miracle 1948 La ronde 1950 and Lady Chatterley's Lover 1955 that paved the way for increased freedom of expression As the fight against censorship progressed case by case through state courts and the U S Supreme Court legal authorities and the public responded growing increasingly sympathetic toward artistic freedom Because a small unorganized group of independent film distributors and exhibitors in mid twentieth century America fought back against what they believed was the unconstitutional prior restraint of motion pictures film after 1965 was able to follow a new path maturing into an artistic medium for the communication of ideas however controversial Government censors would no longer control the content of America's movie screens Laura Wittern Keller's use of previously unexplored archival material and interviews with key figures earned her the researcher of the year award from the New York State Board of Regents and the New York State Archives Partnership Trust Her exhaustive work is the first to discuss more than five decades of film censorship battles that rose from state and local courtrooms to become issues of national debate and significance A compendium of judicial action in the film industry Freedom of the Screen is a tribute to those who fought for the constitutional right of free expression and paved the way for the variety of films that appear in cinemas today

Rock around the Clock Yannis Tzioumakis, Siân Lincoln, 2023-10-18 Examining one of the earliest films made specifically for young audiences in US cinema Rock around the Clock 1956 this book explores the exploitation production company that made the film and the ways it represented young people especially in terms of their association with rock n roll music and culture Providing new avenues of approaching the film the book looks at how Rock around the Clock has attracted significant scholarly attention despite its origins as a low budget production made by master exploitation filmmaker Sam Katzman It challenges accounts that see the film's young people as juvenile delinquents using instead the label cultural rebels as a signifier of youth's ability to resurrect a moribund music industry and rejuvenate a stale youth culture This book also questions the nature of the label exploitation as applied to the film by examining Columbia Pictures' role as a resource provider for Katzman's film comparing Rock around the Clock to contemporaneous films with a youth focus that were produced in different industrial contexts and investigating its relationship to adaptation by asking whether the film is an example of a postliterary adaptation Rich on archival research and industrial and textual analysis Rock around the Clock will interest both film studies and youth cultures scholars
