Freedom to Play Norah L. Lewis, 2010-09-29 When we were children we made our own fun is a frequent comment from those who were children in pre television times But what games activities and amusements did children enjoy prior to the mid 1950s Recollections of older Canadians selections from writings by Canadian authors and letters written to the children s pages of agricultural publications indicate that for most children play was then as now an essential part of childhood Through play youngsters developed the physical mental and emotional skills that helped them cope with life and taught them to get along with other children In both rural and urban settings children were generally free to explore their environment They were sent outdoors to play by both parents and teachers Their games were generally self organized and physically active with domestic animals acting as important companions and playmates Children frequently made their own toys and equipment and since playing rather than winning was important most children were included in games Special days holidays and organizations for children and youth provided welcome breaks from daily routines Their lives were busy but there was always time for play always time for fun Norah Lewis has provided an entertaining view of the toys games and activities in Canada and pre confederate Newfoundland from approximately 1900 through 1955 Her book will be of interest to historians educators and sociologists as well as anyone who lived through or wants to know more about those early years in Canada and the games children used to play

Growing Up Neil Sutherland, 1997-01-01 By laying out the structure of children s lives and their childhood experiences in such settings as the home the classroom the church and on streets and in the playground the author describes how English Canadian children grew up in modern Canada

Upcoast Summers Beth Hill, Francis Barrow, 1985 Francis and Amy Barrow spent the summers between 1933 and 1941 exploring the west coast in their little boat searching for and recording First Nations rock art and yarning with the homesteaders in remote bays and inlets

Sheltering in the Backrush Jeanette Taylor, 2023-04-22 Coastal historian Jeanette Taylor unveils the unique past of Twin Islands Twin Islands form part of the lacey fringe at the southern edge of the Discovery Islands archipelago where it meets the north Salish Sea This is the interface between wilderness and urban settlement To the north heavily treed slopes rise vertically from the sea and fast tides churn through the constricted passages of a maze of islands and inlets Navigating these waters is a white knuckle challenge many recreational boaters avoid ending their travels to the east in Desolation Sound Marine Park To the south the topography relaxes into a more habitable environment of open waters villages towns and highways Those who do find their way to Twin

are richly rewarded by a beautiful and tranquil destination with a fascinating past Discovery of a trove of sepia toned pictures of Twin Islands from the late 1930s drew Jeanette Taylor to research and document the history of the islands She found a live wire cast of characters typical of remote places including a one legged sheep farmer an aristocratic Irish priest who was the victim of an unsolved murder American tycoons fleeing Japan on the cusp of World War II German royalty and an anonymous heiress who rescued the islands from logging Through it all Taylor found a thread among Twin s people passed from one generation to the next like an invisible torch handed over with the deed a love of nature and the place Illustrated with historical photos and engagingly written Sheltering in the Back Rush is an important addition to Harbour Publishing s catalogue of coastal BC history BC Studies ,1988
