Retinal Detachment Daniel A. Brinton M.D., Charles P. Wilkinson M.D., 2009-07-29 Retinal Detachment Principles and Practice provides a historical review of current information on the diagnosis and treatment of retinal detachment. It is intended as both an introduction for graduate students in ophthalmology and a concise review or reference for practicing ophthalmologists. The volume defines the types of retinal detachments, their classifications and causes, and covers preoperative examination, preoperative management, prophylactic procedures, surgery, complications of surgery, and results of reattachment surgery. It also includes a historical introduction, suggested readings at the end of each chapter, and the classic article 'The Technique of Binocular Indirect Ophthalmoscopy' by Morten L. Rosenthal. Retinal Detachment Carl D. Regillo, William Edmunds Benson, 1998. The thoroughly updated Third Edition of this practical guide reflects the growing popularity of new alternative methods for treating primary retinal detachment. This edition features a new chapter on pneumatic retinopexy and state-of-the-art information on balloon buckling and vitrectomy. The authors discuss the latest laser treatment, delivery systems, and vitreoretinal surgical techniques, including the usefulness of perfluorocarbon liquids and silicone oil. Coverage also includes current concepts on risk factors for retinal tears and detachment, and updates on prophylactic strategies. Nearly 200 photographs and drawings, including 56 full-color clinical photographs, complement the text. The illustrations have also been improved, including more colour material, and the references have been revised and supplemented where indicated. The basic format of the first edition has nevertheless been adhered to, namely a concise textbook on retinal detachment surgery which will enable the reader to attain a sequential approach to the examination and treatment of patients with retinal detachment. The clear presentation will benefit those in training as well as the more experienced general ophthalmologist who normally does not specialize in vitreo-retinal surgery but who has to cope with retinal detachment surgical problems.
