The Hole Truth Cartoons From Sowetan Mail Guardian And Cape Argus:

The Hole Truth Zapiro, 1997 Keeping a Sharp Eye Peter Vale, 2012-09

International relations are what a government does when nobody is looking. While this may well once have been true, the conduct of international relations in South Africa and elsewhere has come under increasing scrutiny by the public. This is partially the result of specialist expertise around the formal study of international relations and the making of foreign policy enhanced by the development of International Relations as a separate academic field. Like the growth of institutes of international affairs or the Council on Foreign Relations in the case of America, the study of international relations commenced at the end of the First World War 1914-18 with the establishment at the University of Wales Aberystwyth of the first academic chair in International Relations. It was called for Woodrow Wilson, America's twenty eighth president, and funded by Welsh businessman and pacifist David Davis. In South Africa the study of international relations commenced with the establishment of the South African Institute of International Affairs SAIIA which met for the first time in the Senate Chamber of the University of Cape Town on 12 May 1934. Until then International Relations had been taught in various guises within History, Law, Economics and Politics courses but it lacked a firm institutional base. In South Africa International Relations was first taught as a separate academic discipline at the University of the Witwatersrand in 1963, although a professorship called for Jan Smuts was first filled in 1961. Long before this institutional setting, however, a more subversive and certainly more spicy variety of international relations understanding and critique was at work: this was of course the sharp eye on foreign policy and international relations drawn in jest and sometimes in anger by cartoonists. Their interest in international relations predates the emergence of the powerful critical perspectives that have changed and almost redirected the field since the ending of the Cold War. This book is about how these other experts have looked at and commented on South Africa's relations with the world over the past century. It examines their interpretations of unfolding events and considers how these commentators and their work interacted with the more formal understandings of foreign policy and international relations that came to pass long after cartoons first appeared. A century of South Africa's engagement with the world is understandably a long and complex story. Cartoons on the country were done years before the 1910 Act of Union, as some well known cartoons of the Anglo Boer War suggest. However, by confining my choices to a hundred years of the South African state, I have chosen firm bookends for the collection. The choice of cartoons itself requires further clarification. There is a rather worrying recent notion in South Africa that nothing that happened in the country before the historic election of 1994 matters. In April 2009 at a conference I heard an academic colleague say that what happened in the 1930s was illegitimate and of no real relevance to the present. This lack of interest in history is both short sighted and intellectually lazy. South Africa's international relations today are determined as much by the cartoons drawn by Boonzaier in 1910 as they are by the cartoons drawn by Zapiro in 2010. I choose these two names not only because they conveniently cover almost the full range of the alphabet but because they run from the founding of the South African state in 1910 to the present Their names signal something else too I have only chosen drawings by cartoonists who worked in South Africa As will be clear many cartoonists were not South African born but brought the cartoonist's trade with them to this country As such they brought interpretations and understandings of the world that helped to shape South Africa's perspectives on international relations Most of the artists in this book

Is There a Spin Doctor in the House? Zapiro, 2005 A collection of Zapiro cartoons from the Mail Guardian Sunday Times and Independent Newspapers

Protest! Liz McQuiston, 2019 The best examples of the posters prints and other graphics that have been used for political protest throughout history and right to the present

The Hole Truth Jonathan Shapiro, 1998-12-28 Hard on the heels of the bestseller Zapiro The Madiba Years comes Zapiro's second collection of brilliant cartoons As South Africans grapple with the present the future and the past Zapiro's pen constantly provokes hilarity and debate around dinner tables and in the corridors of power The Apartheid dinosaurs were easy targets These days the political landscape is more nuanced To go for a belly laugh or to go for the jugular that is the question says Zapiro aka Jonathan Shapiro whose work appears regularly in the Mail and Guardian Sowetan and Cape Argus and is reprinted widely in other publications He has had solo exhibitions in Johannesburg Cape Town and New York Zapiro ventures where comrades fear to tread Pieter Dirk Uys ranging across the entire South African spectrum with a pen dipped lightly in acid Cape Argus We should be grateful that the South African democracy has a watchdog of his calibre

Bushwhacked Zapiro, 2002 This is the seventh annual collection of Zapiro satirical political cartoons from the Mail and Guardian Sunday Times and Sowetan

Take Two Veg and Call Me in the Morning Zapiro, 2007 A collection of recent cartoons these scathing and hilarious depictions document 2007 as an eventful year of political folly in South Africa With a special eye for the ridiculous this commentary provides opportunity to laugh at the often bizarre antics of political figures and the sharp unique wit makes for both an entertaining and intellectually stimulating read

Da Zuma Code Zapiro, 2006 Contains the eleventh annual collection of Zapiro cartoons from the Mail Guardian Sunday Times and Independent newspapers

Cases of Intervention Marie Hologa, 2013-08-19 Cases of Intervention offers new perspectives on the case study as a research tool with a long standing tradition in British cultural studies Despite this significance it has hardly ever been explicitly reflected upon as a method but in this volume it takes centre stage Scholars from interdisciplinary fields have written succinctly on diverse topics the eleven case studies are comprehensible and lucid applications of theoretical approaches to topics such as the British cup of tea CCTV and monarchs on film This book will give readers the opportunity to discover the broad spectrum of approaches that make British cultural studies an indispensable discipline for discourses in academia and beyond Each case study presented here illuminates the relationship between cultural practices and theory By choosing cases embedded in everyday life the focus of each contribution is on the potential of pragmatic intervention

The Last Sushi Zapiro,2011 Showcasing the year's best from South Africa's sharpest cartoonist this collection is as much a visually entertaining read as a reflective summary of South African political events Packed with biting humor and cutting edge satire these cartoons reflect the nation's conscience and ensure that no event passes without a comment or laugh

Pace ,1998 Pirates of Polokwane Zapiro,2008 An eagerly awaited album that comes out annually this year's collection of Zapiro's editorial cartoons was hugely well received by South Africans and rose to become the bestselling book in the country Full of delightful satire the cartoons are informed by a sense of truth and dignity even while tackling sensitive issues and attacking public figures particularly those in the ruling party For news hounds who follow current affairs around the globe this book provides an education on the issues and a bounty of deft political humor

South Africa's Truth and Reconciliation Commission Muhammed Haron,2009 The South African Truth and Reconciliation Commission An Annotated Bibliography is a much needed reference work for those who are studying and pursuing the outcomes of Truth Commissions around the world However it is also a valuable tool for all researchers from diverse disciplines For example those specialising in the fields of sociology political science and literature will find material that appeals and is relevant to their areas of research There is little doubt that students and researchers pursuing courses such as Conflict Resolution Good Governance and International Relations would find this compilation more than beneficial since it covers not only an assortment of themes but it also includes ingenious cartoons by the famous Zapiro and memorable photographs by George Hallet In addition the compiler also inserted a select number of poems that dealt with the issues and themes related to the TRC process
