The Homesick Garden:

The homesick garden Kate Cruise O'Brien, 1992 Twentieth-Century Fiction by Irish Women Heather Ingman, 2017-03-02 During much of the twentieth century Irish women's position was on the boundaries of national life Using Julia Kristeva's theories of nationhood often particularly relevant to Ireland this study demonstrates that their marginalization was to women's and indeed the nation's advantage as Irish women writers used their voice to subvert received pieties both about women and about the Irish nation Kristevan theories of the other the foreigner the semiotic the mother and the sacred are explored in authors as diverse as Elizabeth Bowen Kate O'Brien Edna O'Brien Mary Dorsey Jennifer Johnston and Eilís Ní Dhuibhne as well as authors from Northern Ireland like Deirdre Madden Polly Devlin and Mary Morrissy These writers whose voices have frequently been sidelined or misunderstood because they write against the grain of their country's cultural heritage finally receive their due in this important contribution to Irish and gender studies

Ireland's Women Katie Donovan, 1995 The women who appear in these pages are both well known and unknown real and invented They include for instance the fiery Elizabeth Fitzgerald who defended her castle so successfully and Granuaile the pirate queen from Galway Gardens of the Caribbees Ida May Hill Starr, 1904 Old Time Gardens Alice Morse Earle, 1901 Native to the Nation Allaine Cerwonka, 2004 In a world increasingly marked by migration and dislocation the question of displacement and of establishing a sense of belonging has become ever more common and ever more urgent But what of those who stay in place How do people who remain in their place of origin or ancestral homeland rearticulate a sense of connection of belonging when ownership of the territory they occupy is contested Focusing on Australia Allaine Cerwonka examines the physical and narrative spatial practices by which people reclaim territory in the wake of postcolonial claims to land by indigenous people and new immigration of foreigners As a multicultural postcolonial nation whose claims to land until recently were premised on the notion of the continent as empty terra nullius Australia offers an especially rich lens for understanding the reterritorialization of the nation state in an era of globalization To this end Native to the Nation provides a multisited ethnography of two communities in Melbourne the Fitzroy Police Station and the East Melbourne Garden Club allowing us to see how bodies are managed and nations physically constructed in everyday confrontations and cultivations Allaine Cerwonka is assistant professor of women's studies and political science at Georgia State University

Gardens of the Caribbees Ida May Hill Starr, 2020-10-10 This 2 volume book features the sketches written during a cruise to the West Indies and the Spanish Main in the winter and spring of 1901 The author's intention was not to write a West Indian guide book but rather to give preference to the human side of the picture through glimpses of the people and their ways of life and thought With this idea it was thought best to give attention only to such of the ports visited as were full of human interest and typical of the life about the Caribbean Sea The author believed that it might be of interest to remember as well that at no time since could this voyage have been made under the same conditions by the publishing of this book in 1903 several ports have become dangerous because of fever and plague proclamations in French and pronunciamientos in Spanish have adorned West Indian street corners Haiti has reverted to its almost chronic state of riot
