The Dark Horizon:

The Dark Horizon Alexander Highlands, 1971 Some Principles of Accelerated Stream and Valley Sedimentation Stafford Coleman Happ, Gilbert Colfax Dobson, Gordon Rittenhouse, 1940 MEDIEVAL Dallas S. Paskell, 2014-06-26 Taj Odin Xavier returns home to find his father dead and his king ready to surrender the key to the city state he's always called home. His friends are all dead. But remnants from his travels and things found and earned along the way push the renegade army threatening Eternis to decimation. After saving the city from capture, Taj turns his aggression towards the city that let his father down, the same man that spent a lifetime serving it. He cast down the churches of all faiths save those of Draconic origin. He allows the Draconic Order to remain prevalent in the city due to it being the dragons that come down to help him. After he focuses his newfound aggression towards the Republic of New Magic, more specifically Marko Kane, the killer of King Gerear's eldest son, Taj tries to utilize what heart he has left to rekindle the romance between him and Destiny, but an act he deems as betrayal is too much for him. With Destiny forcing him to stay out of it, he orders a newfound ally to execute the culprit. With matters settled in Eternis, he and his new allies set sail for the Republic of New Magic. Runethedian's first outpost against the unending ships and armies of the New Threat, sometimes called the Northern Threat. At first, he plans only to stay long enough to avenge his king's eldest son. But then the war begins to consume him, and the things the Father Vampire left inside him begin to writhe in his chest once again. This proves to Taj he's not fully gone. But those powers prove useful in the fight against the New Threat. In the end, he ultimately decides to sail to the heart of the beast in hopes of either securing a truce or ending its life. With every passing day, Taj Odin Xavier loses more of his humanity. Will any of it remain once the war against the New Threat is over? That is assuming he lives, of course.

Recovering Memory Hedda Friberg, Irene Gilsenan Nordin, Lene Yding Pedersen, 2009-03-26 Various ways of collecting, storing, and recovering memories have been the focus of the most recent joint research project carried out by a group of Irish Studies scholars all based in the Nordic countries and members of the Nordic Irish Studies Network (NISN). The result of the project, Recovering Memory: Irish Representations of Past and Present, is a collection of essays which examines the theme of memory in Irish literature and culture against the theoretical background of the philosophical discourse of modernity. Offering a wide range of perspectives, this volume examines a plurality of representations, past and present, of memory both public and private and the intersection between collective memory and individual in modern Ireland. Also explored is the relation between memory and identity, national and private, as well as questions of subjectivity and the construction of the self. Given Ireland's tragic past and its long history of colonisation, it is inevitable that various aspects of memory in terms of nationality, post-colonialism, and politics also have bearing on this study. The volume is divided into five sections, each of which examines one broadly defined aspect of memory. The introductory section focuses on memory and history and is followed by sections on memory and autobiography, place, identity, and memory in the work of novelist John Banville. Within each section, the individual writers engage in a fruitful dialogue with each other and with the approaches of such theorists as Arendt Husserl Merleau Ponty Ricoeur and Baudrillard
