Spiritually Widowed Wives For Christian:

Spiritually Widowed Wives Rosemarie D. Malroy, 2002-10 Tecnología del Desempeño Humano es el primer tratado exhaustivo en castellano sobre los conceptos, métodos y herramientas de la disciplina conocida como Human Performance Technology (HPT) elaborado por una autoridad internacional en la materia. Este libro es a la vez una guía paso a paso para diagnosticar, analizar, diseñar, implementar y evaluar sistemas de alto desempeño en la organización. Todos los instrumentos y tecnologías presentados están validados por rigurosa investigación y aplicaciones organizacionales exitosas en empresas líderes de Estados Unidos, Europa, América Latina y Asia, así como por su aplicación en el Instituto Internacional para la Mejora del Desempeño, programa doctoral del Instituto Tecnológico de Sonora. Para la realización de este libro, el Dr. Bernardez realizó una exhaustiva validación de la literatura en la materia publicada en inglés y castellano entre 1914 y 2005. Los instrumentos prácticos fueron validados mediante su aplicación a 14 organizaciones de banca, agroindustria, construcción, desarrollo de software, educación, energía, logística, comercio local e internacional, gobierno y ONGs.

Wives, Widows, Mistresses, and Nuns in Early Modern Italy Katherine A. McIver, 2016-12-05 Through a visually oriented investigation of historical invisibility in early modern Italy, the essays in this volume recover those women—wives, widows, mistresses, the illegitimate—who have been erased from history in modern literature, rendered invisible or obscured by history or scholarship, as well as those who were overshadowed by male relatives, political accident, or spatial location. A multifaceted invisibility of the individual and of the object is the thread that unites the chapters in this volume. Though some women chose to be invisible—for example, the cloistered nun—these essays show that in fact their voices are heard or seen through their commissions and their patronage of the arts, which afforded them some visibility. Invisibility is also examined in terms of commissions which are no longer extant or are inaccessible. What is revealed throughout the essays is a new way of looking at works of art, a new way to visualize the past by addressing representational invisibility, the marginalized or absent subject or object, and historical invisibility to discover who does the looking and how this shapes how something or someone is visible or invisible. The result is a more nuanced understanding of the place of women and gender in early modern Italy.

From Wives to Widows in Early Modern Paris Janine M. Lanza, 2016-04-22 Looking especially at widows of master craftsmen in early modern Paris, this study provides analysis of the social and cultural structures that shaped widows' lives as well as their day-to-day experiences. Janine Lanza examines widows in early modern Paris at every social and economic level, beginning with the late sixteenth century when changes in royal law curtailed the movement of property within families up to the time of the French Revolution. The glimpses she gives us of widows running businesses, debating remarriage, and negotiating marriage contracts offer precious insights into the daily lives of women in this period. Lanza shows that understanding widows dramatically alters our understanding of gender, not only in terms of how it was lived in this period but also how historians can use this idea as a category of analysis. Her study also engages the historiographical issue of business and entrepreneurship.

particularly women's participation in the world of work and explicitly examines the place of the law in the lived experience of the early modern period. How did widowed women use their newly acquired legal emancipation? How did they handle their emotional loss? How did their roles in their families and their communities change? How did they remain financially solvent without a man in the house? How did they make decisions that had always been made by the men around them? These questions all touch upon the experience of widows and on the ways women related to prevalent structures and ideologies in this society. Lanza's study of these women, the ways they were represented and how they experienced their widowhood challenges many historical assumptions about women and their roles with respect to the law, the family and economic activity.

Early Christian Widows and their Social-economic Situation, Support, and Contribution to the Church Rebekah Yurong Zhao, 2025-10-02. In the first consideration of widows in early Christianity, Rebekah Yurong Zhao explores the social economic situation of widows, their means of support and their contributions to the church. Through literary analysis of three different genres of early Christian texts: narrative, instruction and apologetic texts, Zhao argues that historical conclusions can be drawn especially when set against the cultural backgrounds in both the Roman world and ancient Judaism. By exploring the situation for widowed women in these cultures and analysing significant texts from the first two centuries of the church, including 1 Timothy, the Shepherd of Hermas, Ignatius Polycarp, Tertullian and the Apologists, Zhao seeks to answer three key questions: what status did widows hold in early Christian society, who precisely comprised their support network and what contributions did they make to the church. Ultimately, this volume examines how support for widows became an iconic practice in early Christianity whilst also dispelling the stereotype of the widow as merely a passive recipient of care.

The novel begins with Richard Papen, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a exceptional and thrilling novel that will keep you speculating until the very end. The novel is a warning tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
