The Death Penalty And Torture:

The Death Penalty as Torture John D. Bessler, 2017 The Death Penalty as Torture From the Dark Ages to Abolition was named a Bronze Medalist in the World History category of the Independent Publisher Book Awards and a finalist in the Eric Hoffer Book Awards 2018 During the Dark Ages and the Renaissance Europe's monarchs often resorted to torture and executions The pain inflicted by instruments of torture from the thumbscrew and the rack to the Inquisition's tools of torment was eclipsed only by horrific methods of execution from breaking on the wheel and crucifixion to drawing and quartering and burning at the stake The English Bloody Code made more than 200 crimes punishable by death and judicial torture expressly authorized by law and used to extract confessions permeated continental European legal systems Judges regularly imposed death sentences and other harsh corporal punishments from the stocks and the pillory to branding and ear cropping to lashes at public whipping posts In the Enlightenment jurists and writers questioned the efficacy of torture and capital punishment In 1764 the Italian philosopher Cesare Beccaria the father of the world's anti death penalty movement condemned both practices And Montesquieu like Beccaria and others concluded that any punishment that goes beyond absolute necessity is tyrannical Traditionally torture and executions have been viewed in separate legal silos with countries renouncing acts of torture while simultaneously using capital punishment The UN Convention Against Torture strictly prohibits physical or psychological torture not even war or threat of war can be invoked to justify it But under the guise of lawful sanctions some countries continue to carry out executions even though they bear the indicia of torture In The Death Penalty as Torture Prof John Bessler argues that death sentences and executions are medieval relics In a world in which mock or simulated executions as well as a host of other non lethal acts are already considered to be torturous he contends that death sentences and executions should be classified under the rubric of torture Unlike in the Middle Ages penitentiaries one of the products of the Enlightenment now exist throughout the globe to house violent offenders With the rise of life without parole sentences and with more than four of five nations no longer using executions The Death Penalty as Torture calls for the recognition of a peremptory international law norm against the death penalty's use The Death Penalty and Torture Franz Böckle, Jacques Marie Pohier, 1979 A Crossroad book Includes bibliographical references The Death Penalty as Cruel Treatment and Torture William Schabas, 1996 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1890 edition Excerpt said Mr Fogg Well your honor replied the pilot I can risk neither my men nor myself nor yourself in so long a voyage on a boat of scarcely twenty tons at this time of the year Besides we would not arrive in time for it is sixteen hundred and fifty miles from Hong Kong to Yokohama Only sixteen hundred said Mr Fogg It is the same thing Fix took a good long breath But added the pilot there might perhaps be a means to arrange it otherwise Fix did not breathe any more How asked Phileas Fogg By going to Nagasaki the southern extremity of Japan eleven hundred miles or only to Shanghai eight hundred miles from Hong Kong In this last journey we would not be at any distance from the Chinese coast which would be a great advantage all the more so that the currents run to the north Pilot replied Phileas Fogg I must take the American mail steamer at Yokohama and not at Shanghai or Nagasaki Why not replied the pilot The San Francisco steamer does not start from Yokohama She stops there and at Nagasaki but her port of departure is Shanghai You are certain of what you are saying Certain And when does the steamer leave Shanghai On the 11th at seven o'clock in the evening We have then four days before us Four days that is ninety six hours and with an average of eight knots an hour if we have good luck if the wind keeps to the southeast if the sea is calm we can make the eight hundred miles which separate us from Shanghai And you can leave in an hour time enough to buy my provisions and hoist sail It is a bargain you are the master of the boat Yes John Bunsby master of the Tankadere Do you wish some earnest money If it does not inconvenience

The Death Penalty's Denial of Fundamental Human Rights John Bessler, 2022-12-15 This book details how capital punishment violates universal human rights and traces the evolution of the world's understanding of torture Ultimate Penalties Leon Shaskolsky Sheleff, 1987

The Slow Death of the Death Penalty Todd C. Peppers, Jamie Almaller, Mary Welek Atwell, 2025-07-01 Why the death penalty is in decline across the United States Across the country the death penalty is dying Twenty two states have abandoned state sanctioned executions including nine in the last fifteen years Of the twenty eight states that still have the death penalty eight have not had an execution in over a decade And public support for the death penalty has declined from 80% of the surveyed population in the early 1990s to approximately 50% today As the death penalty slowly withers away Todd C Peppers Jamie Almaller and Mary Welek Atwell bring together a number of distinguished death penalty scholars activists and attorneys to take an accounting of the damage inflicted by the machinery of death Contributors to the book point to a range of different pathologies which have caused politicians and voters to turn against capital punishment from unacceptable rates of false convictions and racially motivated prosecutions to a clemency process poisoned by political factors Essay topics include various dimensions of the death penalty including racial and gender bias economic costs the conviction of juveniles the mentally ill and the factually innocent Supreme Court decisions and the failure of the death penalty to serve as a deterrent against crime This important volume is an up to date accounting of the current state and as the contributors argue the future demise of the death penalty

The Abolition of the Death Penalty in International Law William Schabas, 2002-09-05 This is the 2002 third edition of William A Schabas's highly praised study of the abolition of the death penalty in international law Extensively revised to take account of developments in the field since publication of the second edition in 1997 the book details the progress of the international community away from the use of capital punishment discussing in detail the abolition of the death penalty within the United Nations human rights system international humanitarian law European human rights law and Inter American human rights law New chapters in the third edition address capital punishment in African human rights law and in international criminal law An extensive list of appendices contains many of the essential documents for the study of capital punishment in international law The Abolition of the Death Penalty in International Law is introduced with a Foreword by Judge Gilbert Guillaume President of the International Court of Justice

The Death Penalty's Denial of Fundamental Human Rights John D. Bessler, 2023 The Death Penalty's Denial of Fundamental Human Rights details how capital punishment violates universal human rights to life to be free from torture and other forms of cruelty to be treated in a non arbitrary non discriminatory manner and to dignity In tracing the evolution of the world's understanding of torture which now absolutely prohibits physical and psychological torture the book argues that an immutable characteristic of capital punishment already outlawed in many countries and American states is that it makes use of death threats Mock executions and other credible death threats in fact have long been treated as torturous acts When crime victims are threatened with death and are helpless to prevent their deaths for example courts routinely find such threats inflict psychological torture With simulated executions and non lethal corporal punishments already prohibited as torturous acts death sentences and real executions the book contends must be classified as torturous acts too

The Death Penalty as State Crime Laura L. Finley, 2024-03-27 This book offers a new perspective on the death penalty in the US examining capital punishment as state crime or state produced harm It addresses the death penalty showing how the state not only authorizes a system and a practice that tortures human beings but is also aware of its deep flaws and chooses not to address them Building on the vast literature on state crime together with case examples and interviews with activists seeking to abolish the death penalty this book offers a new and innovative critique of state punishment in the US It draws on a range of issues and topics such as arbitrariness inadequate counsel racial bias mental illness innocence conditions on death row the protocols and the equipment used for executions It emphasizes the need for abolition of the death penalty and highlights efforts being made to do so with a focus on successful elements of abolition campaigns The Death Penalty as State Crime is essential reading for all those engaged with capital punishment human rights and state crime and will be of interest to criminologists sociologists legal scholars and political scientists alike

The Death Penalty Roger Hood, Carolyn Hoyle, 2015 The fifth edition of this highly praised study charts and explains the progress that continues to be made towards the goal of worldwide abolition of the death penalty The majority of nations have now abolished the death penalty and the number of executions has dropped in almost all countries where abolition has not yet taken place Emphasizing the impact of international human rights principles and evidence of abuse the authors examine how this has fueled challenges to the death penalty and they analyze and appraise the likely obstacles political and cultural to further abolition They discuss the cruel realities of the death penalty and the failure of international standards always to ensure fair trials and to avoid arbitrariness discrimination and conviction of the innocent all violations of the right to life They provide further evidence of the lack of a general deterrent effect shed new light on the influence and limits of public opinion and argue that substituting for the death penalty life imprisonment without parole raises many similar human rights concerns This edition provides a strong intellectual and evidential basis for regarding capital punishment as undeniably cruel inhuman and degrading Widely relied upon and fully updated to reflect the current state of affairs worldwide this is an invaluable resource for all those who study the death penalty and work towards its removal as an international goal
