

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776.
A DECLARATION
BY THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
IN GENERAL CONGRESS ASSEMBLED.

WHEN in the Course of human Events, it becomes necessary for one People to dissolve the Political Bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the Powers of the Earth, the separate and equal Station, to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them; a decent Respect to the Opinions of Mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the Separation.

We hold these Truths to be self-evident, that all Men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness—that to secure these Rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just Powers from the Consent of the Governed, that whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its Foundation on such Principles, and organizing its Powers in such Manner, as shall seem to them best to secure their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient Causes; and accordingly all Resentments against former Governments, should be forgotten. Yet when a long Train of Abuses and Usurpations, which have assumed the Character of a regular System, have accumulated, so that it is necessary to reform the old Model, and to replace it by a new one, a prudent Choice of new Measures is the only safe Course, and on these Principles we have adjusted our present Constitution, and we hereby declare that we are united to these Principles, and we hereby declare that we are united to these Principles, and we hereby declare that we are united to these Principles.

The history of the United States is a history of a long and arduous struggle for the rights of the people. The Declaration of Independence is a document that is one of the most important documents in the history of the United States.
