The Post-cold War American Defense Industry Ann R. Markusen, 1996

India and Central Asia in the Post-Cold War Era Saroj Kumar Aryal, 2024-11-29 This book analyses the evolution of India's foreign policy towards Central Asia after the end of the Cold War Focusing on the development of India's foreign policy towards Central Asia between 1991 and 2020 this book investigates the explanatory and intervening variables of the policy towards the region to identify its goals assumptions motivations and instruments The preliminary assumption is that India's foreign policy towards Central Asia has evolved after the Cold War from a passive approach to an active participant in Central Asian security economic and socio cultural spheres This is also seen due to the emergence of the five Central Asian countries as independent states which have a tremendous strategic significance due to their geographical location huge hydrocarbon reserve and potential economic opportunities India expanded its policy to the Extended Neighbourhood adding East Central and West Asia to the existing South Asian neighbourhood Since then India has been engaging with the region considering the growing geostrategic and geo economic significance of the region and using the available foreign policy instruments This book presents a comprehensive assessment of India s foreign policy behaviour evolution with proper analysis of the explanatory external and intervening internal variables that influence India s behaviours towards the region It shows that India also aims to be a very influential power in Central Asia This book will be an excellent resource for students and researchers of area and global studies international relations Asian Politics and South and Central Asia The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license

The Outlook for Utah's Defense Industry in the Post-cold War Era Mark J. Madrian, Douglas A. MacDonald, 1990 The Economics of Defense Industry Thomas-Durell

Young, 2023-10-17 This book on the economics of defence industry assesses a series of historical and contemporary case studies that consistently demonstrate the need for governments to recognise and thereafter factor the financial needs of a narrow industrial sector that is capital intensive technologically advanced and that requires a highly skilled labour force Since the end of the cold war Western governments have systematically reduced financial support to their domestic defence industry and have seemingly ignored planning and funding industrial mobilisation In all cases government policy has been to encourage industries to consolidate capacity to become financially viable in a sector that has seen diminished demand The 2022 Russian invasion of Ukraine has caused Western governments to reassess their previous assumptions Efforts to increase industrial capacity have been met with the iron laws of economics whereby businesses need to show return on investments The chapters in this volume posit that efforts to rationalise industrial capacity and innovation to meet short term financial efficiencies inevitably results in limited expensive and long delays in increased production in times of international crisis This book serves as an essential guide for academics researchers and students interested in defence economics industrial economics international relations and industrial policy The chapters in this book were originally published in various issues of Defense Security Analysis From Defense to Development? Sean M.
