

How does an historian look at historical evidence?

- Looks at WHO wrote something and tries to determine the reliability of the facts and determine any bias.
- Looks at evidence through an historical context.
- Historians look for all sides of the story and they recognize when only one side of the story has been told.

The Historian And Historical Evidence:

The Historian and Historical Evidence Allen Johnson ,1926 The Historian and Historical Evidence Allen Johnson,1930 The Historian and Historical Evidence Allen 1870-1931 Johnson,2021-09-09 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public To ensure a quality reading experience this work has been proofread and republished using a format that seamlessly blends the original graphical elements with text in an easy to read typeface We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant The Historian and Film Paul Smith,1976-01-29 Film is increasingly engaging the attention of students of history at all levels In its manifold forms from the newsreel to the feature it is a major source of evidence for and an important influence upon contemporary history and a vivid means of bringing the recent past to life For earlier periods it provides a medium in which the often widely dispersed visual evidences of the past can be brought together for the student It offers the historian a new form in which to interpret and present his subject and as television has shown it is by far the most important vehicle for the presentation of history to mass audiences The analysis of its content and impact and the exploration of its uses are especially fitted to bring history into an interdisciplinary relationship with other fields from sociology to the visual arts The Historian and Historical Evidence Stephen L. Sherwood,1965 Exploring Big Historical Data: The Historian's Macroscopic (Second Edition) Shawn Graham,Ian Milligan,Scott B Weingart,Kimberley Martin,2022-02-24 Every day more and more kinds of historical data become available opening exciting new avenues of inquiry but also new challenges This updated and expanded book describes and demonstrates the ways these data can be explored to construct cultural heritage knowledge for research and in teaching and learning It helps humanities scholars to grasp Big Data in order to do their work whether that means understanding the underlying algorithms at work in search engines or designing and using their own tools to process large amounts of information Demonstrating what digital tools have to offer and also what digital does to how we understand the past the authors introduce the many different tools and developing approaches in Big Data for historical and humanistic scholarship show how to use them what to be wary of and discuss the kinds of questions and new perspectives this new macroscopic perspective opens up Originally authored live online with ongoing feedback from the wider digital history community Exploring Big Historical Data breaks new ground and sets the direction for the conversation into the future Exploring Big Historical Data should be the go to resource for undergraduate and graduate students confronted by a vast corpus of data and researchers encountering these methods for the first time It will also offer a helping hand to the interested individual seeking to make sense of genealogical data or digitized newspapers and even the local historical society who are trying to see the value in digitizing their holdings

The Historian's Toolbox Robert C. Williams, 2019-11-27 The Historian's Toolbox introduces students to the theory craft and methods of history and equips them with a series of tools to research and understand the past Written in an engaging and entertaining style and filled with fascinating examples this best selling how to book opens up an exciting world behind historical research and writing This fourth edition expands the repertory of tools and techniques available to students entering the workshop of history These include materials on the Kennedy assassination the litigation of Van Gogh's Night Café local town histories contemporary history Twitter and the contemplation of the end of history as well as the Sixth Extinction in a new epilogue The book demonstrates the relevance and expanding possibilities of the study of history in our cacophonous information age of tweetstorms and fake news it emphasises the increasing value of critical thinking facts and evidence in the face of political lies and conspiracy theories Material added to the fourth edition will resonate with a new generation of computer literate readers in the face of climate change The Historian's Toolbox continues to be a seminal text for supporting students throughout their study of history and an accessible teaching tool for instructors

The What and the Why of History Goldstein, 2021-12-06 The What and the Why of History deals with history as a cognitive discipline concerned to establish justifiable knowledge about a past we can never experience It is divided into three parts The first focuses on the conditions that are presupposed when historians offer explanations of what they have come to know But whatever is to be explained must first come to be known and the second part is concerned with the character of the cognitive activity which is the constitution of the historical past The point is that we must attend to the historical enterprise on its own terms and not try to make it fit the epistemology of natural science or of common sense The last section deals with Collingwood It is shown that his characteristic positions contribute to an account of historical knowing not historical explanation
