Metaphors of Memory D. Draaisma,2000-12-07 What is memory It is at the same time ephemeral unreliable and essential to everything we do Without memory we lose our sense of identity reasoning even our ability to perform simple physical tasks Yet it is also elusive and difficult to define and throughout the ages philosophers and psychologists have used metaphors as a way of understanding it First published in 2000 this fascinating book takes the reader on a guided tour of these metaphors of memory from ancient times to the present day Crossing continents and disciplines it provides a compelling history of ideas about the mind by exploring the way these metaphors have been used metaphors often derived from the techniques and instruments developed over the years to store information ranging from wax tablets and books to photography computers and even the hologram Accessible and thought provoking this book should be read by anyone who is interested in memory and the mind

The Illustrated History of the Cinema Ann Lloyd,David Robinson,1987 Antique Phonograph Advertising Timothy C. Fabrizio,George F. Paul,2002-01 In this their fifth collaboration award winning authors Timothy C Fabrizio and George F Paul examine the fascinating and collectible field of phonograph advertising Whether pragmatic inspirational or merely avaricious talking machine promotion assumed a variety of mantles during its first fifty years Charming trade cards brightly lithographed posters flamboyant letterheads and a wide variety of bizarre objects emblazoned with marketing slogans were used to sell phonographs and records during the 1877 1929 period Additionally phonograph records were used as a medium for promoting products as disparate as toothpaste automobiles and presidents Indulge yourself with this visual feast of 450 color illustrations of phonograph and record marketing from yesteryear plus detailed captions values and an insightful text Discovering Antique Phonographs Timothy C. Fabrizio,George F. Paul,2000 Out of the authors latest explorations this gorgeous new book has come to life illustrating entirely different talking machines from those in their previous books Follow the progress of the acoustic talking machine from its crude beginnings in the 1870s to its most splendid and sophisticated heights in the early 20th century An unparalleled archive of rare fascinating and previously undocumented objects has been assembled The story behind the beautiful bright machinery is told through clear and insightful descriptions and many previously unpublished facts are revealed The Cambridge Illustrated History of China Patricia Buckley Ebrey,2010-01-25 In this sumptuously illustrated history now in its second edition Patricia Buckley Ebrey traces the origins of Chinese culture from prehistoric times to the present

Introduction to the History of Communication Terence P. Moran,2010 An Introduction to the History of Communication Evolutions and Revolutions provides a comprehensive overview of how human communication has changed and is changing Focusing on the evolutions and revolutions of six key changes in the history of communication becoming human creating writing developing print capturing the image harnessing electricity and exploring cybernetics the author reveals how communication was generated stored and shared This ecological approach provides a comprehensive understanding of the key variables that underlie each of these great evolutions revolutions in human communication Designed as an introduction for history of communication classes the text examines the past attempting to identify the key dynamics of change in these human technical semiotic social political economic and cultural structures in order to better understand the present and prepare for possible future developments

BOOK JACKET Sounding New Media Frances Dyson, 2009-09-04 Sounding New Media examines the long neglected role of sound and audio in the development of new media theory and practice including new technologies and performance art events with particular emphasis on sound embodiment art and technological interactions Frances Dyson takes an historical approach focusing on technologies that became available in the mid twentieth century electronics imaging and digital and computer processing and analyzing the work of such artists as John Cage Edgard Var se Antonin Artaud and Char Davies She utilizes sound s intangibility to study ideas about embodiment or its lack in art and technology as well as fears about technology and the so called post human Dyson argues that the concept of immersion has become a path leading away from aesthetic questions about meaning and toward questions about embodiment and the physical The result is an insightful journey through the new technologies derived from electronics imaging and digital and computer processing toward the creation of an aesthetic and philosophical framework for considering the least material element of an artwork sound

A History of Mass Communication Irving Fang, 1997-02-27 This exciting new text traces the common themes in the long and complex history of mass communication It shows how the means of communicating grew out of their eras how they developed how they influenced the societies of those eras and how they have continued to exert their influence upon subsequent generations The book is divided into six periods which are identified as Information Revolutions writing printing mass media entertainment the toolshed which we call home now and the Information Highway In looking at the ways in which the tools of communication have influenced and been influenced by social change A History of Mass Communication provides students of media and journalism with a strong sense of the way their chosen field affects how society functions Providing a broad based approach to media history Dr Fang encourages the reader to take a careful look at where our culture is headed through the tools we use to communicate with one another A History of Mass Communication is not only the most current text on communication history but also an invaluable resource for anyone interested in how methods of communication affect society
