The Impossible Europeans:

The Holy Fool in European Cinema Alina G. Birzache, 2016-02-05 This monograph explores the way that the profile and the critical functions of the holy fool have developed in European cinema allowing this traditional figure to capture the imagination of new generations in an age of religious pluralism and secularization Alina Birzache traces the cultural origins of the figure of the holy fool across a variety of European traditions In so doing she examines the critical functions of the holy fool as well as how filmmakers have used the figure to respond to and critique aspects of the modern world Using a comparative approach this study for the first time offers a comprehensive explanation of the enduring appeal of this protean and fascinating cinematic character Birzache examines the trope of holy foolishness in Soviet and post Soviet cinema French cinema and Danish cinema corresponding broadly to and permitting analysis of the three main orientations in European Christianity Orthodox Catholic and Protestant This study will be of keen interest to scholars of religion and film European cinema and comparative religion The Failures of American and European Climate Policy Loren R. Cass, 2006-01-01 Examines why some nations but not others have met their commitments to international climate treaties An Introduction to Modern European Philosophy Jenny Teichman, Graham White, 2016-07-27 An Introduction to Modern European Philosophy contains scholarly but accessible essays by nine British academics on Hegel Schopenhauer Kierkegaard Marx Nietzsche Husserl Heidegger Sartre Simone de Beauvoir Maritain Hannah Arendt Habermas Foucault and the Events of 1968 Written for English speaking readers it describes the varied traditions within 19th and 20th century European philosophy reflecting the dynamism and plurality within the European tradition and presenting opposing points of view It deals with both French and German philosophers plus Kierkegaard and is not confined to any one school of thought It has been purged of jargon but contains a glossary of important technical terms There is a bibliography of further reading and website information at the end of each chapter The United States, the European Union, and the Globalization of World Trade Thomas C. Fischer, 2000-04-30 Professor Fischer presents a comprehensive overview of global trade at the start of a new century from a national regional and international viewpoint He looks closely at the four dominant and competing economic systems the United States the European Union Japan and China and argues that the traditional we win you lose national trade paradigm has been replaced by one that is more collaborative one that is leaning toward de facto world governance He compares foreigners attitudes toward trade and markets with our own using four economic models that typify world trade today He examines the interface between national regional and international trading systems and between business and government then at the prospect of global trade management in different trade sectors under the GATT WTO and other organizations The result is a provocative discussion of global trade today Professor Fischer makes it clear that the United States needs allies Though its influence in the world trade arena will continue America's hegemony has ended The European Union is America's most obvious ally but it has many problems and ambitions of its own The North American Free Trade Agreement has solidified the North American market but it may isolate and lose South America while Japan China Russia and others are left to develop alliances of their own All these factors raise important global questions among them Can American capitalism prevail Should the United States proceed unilaterally as it has so often Or are regional and multinational arrangements preferable If there is further globalization as seems inevitable and if American influence is on the wane what group or organization will lead To explore these questions and provide the beginnings of answers Professor Fischer uses his four competing economic systems and handicaps the process country by country sector by sector with particular attention to transatlantic relations

Readings in European Security (Vol. I) François Heisbourg, 2002

What Form of Government for the European Union and the Eurozone? Federico Fabbrini, Ernst Hirsch Ballin, Hans Somsen, 2015-10-29 What is the form of government of the European Union EU And how is the institutional governance of the Eurozone evolving These questions have become pressing during the last few years On the one hand the Euro crisis and the legal and institutional responses to it have had major implications on the constitutional architecture of the EU and the Eurozone On the other hand the May 2014 elections for the European Parliament and the ensuing struggle to form the European Commission have brought to the fore new tensions in the EU political system The purpose of this book which brings together the contributions of EU lawyers comparative constitutional lawyers and political scientists from all over Europe and the United States is to offer a new look at the form of government of the EU and the Eurozone and consider its potential for future development While offering a plurality of perspectives on the form of government of the EU and the Eurozone this book emphasises how the Euro crisis represents a watershed in the process of European integration makes the case for a more legitimate and effective form of government for the EU and the Eurozone and identifies possible windows of opportunity for future treaty reforms The volume will provide food for thought for scholars policy makers and the public at large as they continue debating the most apt form of government for the EU and the Eurozone

The Figure of the Migrant in Contemporary European Cinema Temenuga Trifonova, 2020-07-09 The Figure of the Migrant in Contemporary European Cinema explores contemporary debates around the concepts of Europe and European identity through an examination of recent European films dealing with various aspects of globalization the refugee crisis labour migration the resurgence of nationalism and ethnic violence neoliberalism post colonialism with a particular attention to the figure of the migrant and the ways in which this figure challenges us to rethink Europe and its core Enlightenment values citizenship justice ethics liberty tolerance and hospitality in a post national context of ephemerality volatility and contingency that finds people desperately looking for firmer markers of identity The book argues that a compelling case can be made for re orienting the study of contemporary European cinema around the figure of the migrant viewed both as a symbolic figure representing post national citizenship urbanization the gap between ethics and justice and as a figure occupying an increasingly central place in European cinema in general rather than only in what is usually called migrant and diasporic cinema By drawing attention to the structural and affective affinities between the experience of migrants and non migrants Europeans and non Europeans Trifonova shows that it is becoming increasingly difficult to separate stories about migration from stories about life under neoliberalism in general

The Gift of European Thought and the Cost of Living Vassos Argyrou, 2013-09-01 European thought is often said to be a gift to the rest of the world but what if there is no gift as such What if there is only an economy where every giving is also a taking and every taking is also a giving This book extends the question of economies by making a case for an economy of thought and a political economy It argues that all thinking and doing presupposes taking and therefore giving as the price to pay for taking or that there exists a cost of living which renders the idea of free thinking and living untenable The argument is developed against the Enlightenment directive to think for oneself as the means of becoming autonomous and shows that this light given to the rest of the world as a gift turns out to be nothing

The Dynamics of European Integration Thomas König, 2024-05-02 In Europe's recent history there have been several challenges to the strength of the European Union Brexit COVID financial crises and global tensions bringing an increased need to understand the ways that the European Union EU could successfully stay together or fall apart In examining how the European Union has changed since 1993 important puzzles have emerged including how national government functions are transferred to the EU without reforming the EU how increased transparency is announced while decisions are approved in informal meetings and how the effects of the polarizing rise of Euroscepticism can be managed to still promote the formation of solidarity and trust among Europeans To understand these puzzles Thomas König introduces a new theory of supra national partyism to help explain the causes and consequences of choices made by political leaders for Europe He uses a game theoretical perspective to look at how conditions for leaders change through accessions of new members shocks and crises and separates institutional choices into two different games played by office and policy seeking political leaders the interstate summit game and the national game of party competition The Dynamics of European Integration reveals how the reorganization of electoral systems can harness dissensus and polarization among diverse national constituencies to enable the promotion of solidarity and trust in the EU
