The Insect God:

The Insect God Edward Gorey,1986 The Vinegar Works Edward Gorey,1972 Hagar Mary Johnston,2020-09-28

The people on deck bent over some until heads touched knees others more exactly calculating just sufficiently to clear the beams The canal boat passed beneath the bridge and all straightened themselves on their camp stools The gentlemen who were smoking put their cigars again between their lips The two or three ladies resumed book or knitting The sun was low and the sycamores and willows fringing the banks cast long shadows across the canal The northern bank was not so clothed with foliage and one saw an expanse of bottom land meadows and cornfields and beyond low mountains purple in the evening light The boat slipped from a stripe of gold into a stripe of shadow and from a stripe of shadow into a stripe of gold The negro and the mule on the towpath were now but a bit of dusk in motion and now were lit and so to speak powdered with gold dust Now the rope between boat and towpath showed an arm thick golden serpent and now it did not show at all Now a little cloud of gnats and flies accompanying the boat shone in burnished armour and now they put on a mantle of shade

The God of the Prophets William Paul Griffin,1997-09-01 Content analysis which is a computer assisted form of textual analysis is used to examine divine activity in six prophetic texts comparing God s activity to that of humans In this methodologically innovative study the author concludes in the light of quantitative data that God is harsher to non Israelites than to Israelites in all the texts and much kinder to Israelites in Joel than in the typical prophet God and humans are involved in much the same kinds of physical and mental processes but to considerably different degrees Griffin argues persuasively that the God of the prophets is not the wholly other of some theologies but neither do his actions follow exactly the human pattern
