through time have appropriated her image to interpret and express their own experiences and agendas from the 1500s through today Time, History, and Belief in Aztec and Colonial Mexico Ross Hassig, 2001-04-15 Based on their enormously complex calendars that recorded cycles of many kinds the Aztecs and other ancient Mesoamerican civilizations are generally believed to have had a cyclical rather than linear conception of time and history This boldly revisionist book challenges that understanding Ross Hassig offers convincing evidence that for the Aztecs time was predominantly linear that it was manipulated by the state as a means of controlling a dispersed tribute empire and that the Conquest cut off state control and severed the unity of the calendar leaving only the lesser cycles From these he asserts we have inadequately reconstructed the pre Columbian calendar and so misunderstood the Aztec conception of time and history Hassig first presents the traditional explanation of the Aztec calendrical system and its ideological functions and then marshals contrary evidence to argue that the Aztec elite deliberately used calendars and timekeeping to achieve practical political ends He further traces how the Conquest played out in the temporal realm as Spanish conceptions of time partially displaced the Aztec ones His findings promise to revolutionize our understanding of how the Aztecs and other Mesoamerican societies conceived of time and history The Oxford History of Historical Writing José Rabasa, Masayuki Sato, Edoardo Tortarolo, Daniel Woolf, 2012-03-29 Volume III of The Oxford History of Historical Writing contains essays by leading scholars on the writing of history globally during the early modern era from 1400 to 1800 The volume proceeds in geographic order from east to west beginning in Asia and ending in the Americas It aims at once to provide a selective but authoritative survey of the field and where opportunity allows to provoke cross cultural comparisons This is the third of five volumes in a series that explores representations of the past from the beginning of writing to the present day and from all over the world Cave, City, and Eagle's Nest David Carrasco, Scott Sessions, 2007-11-16 The culmination of recent restoration and analysis these richly illustrated essays examine the history and meaning of one of Mesoamerica's surviving documents dating from the 1540s

The sixteenth century pictorial manuscript known as the Codex Borbonicus contains a remarkable record of the eighteen Mexica or Aztec festival periods of twenty days known as veintenas celebrated during the 365 day solar year Because its indigenous artists framed the Borbonicus veintenas with historical year dates this volume situates the annually recurring rituals within the march of linear reckoned time in the singular year 2 Reed 1507 during the reign of Moteuczoma II DiCesare attends to the historical dimensions of several unusual scenes proposing that the veintenas probably varied significantly from year to year in response to historical concerns She considers particularly whether the Borbonicus veintenas document the confluence of solar year ceremonies with a second set of ritual feast days governed by the 260 day cycle known as the tonalpohualli or count of days In this way DiCesare analyzes how linear and cyclical conceptions of time intersected in Mexica ritual performance Trail of Footprints Alex Hidalgo, 2019-07-12

Trail of Footprints offers an intimate glimpse into the commission circulation and use of indigenous maps from colonial Mexico A collection of one hundred largely unpublished maps from the late sixteenth to the eighteenth centuries made in the southern region of Oaxaca anchors an analysis of the way ethnically diverse societies produced knowledge in colonial settings Mapmaking proposes Hidalgo formed part of an epistemological shift tied to the negotiation of land and natural resources between the region s Spanish Indian and mixed race communities The craft of making maps drew from social memory indigenous and European conceptions of space and ritual and Spanish legal practices designed to adjust spatial boundaries in the New World Indigenous mapmaking brought together a distinct coalition of social actors Indian leaders native towns notaries surveyors judges artisans merchants muleteers collectors and painters who participated in the critical observation of the region s geographic features Demand for maps reconfigured technologies associated with the making of colorants adhesives and paper that drew from Indian botany and experimentation trans Atlantic commerce and Iberian notarial culture The maps in this study reflect a regional perspective associated with Oaxaca s decentralized organization its strategic position amidst a network of important trade routes that linked central Mexico to Central America and the ruggedness and diversity of its physical landscape Aztec Religion and Art of Writing Isabel Laack, 2019-03-27

Winner of the 2020 Award for Excellence in the Study of Religion Historical Studies In her groundbreaking investigation from the perspective of the aesthetics of religion Isabel Laack explores the religion and art of writing of the pre Hispanic Aztecs of Mexico Inspired by postcolonial approaches

she reveals Eurocentric biases in academic representations of Aztec cosmovision ontology epistemology ritual aesthetics and the writing system to provide a powerful interpretation of the Nahua sense of reality Laack transcends the concept of sacred scripture traditionally employed in religions studies in order to reconstruct the Indigenous semiotic theory and to reveal how Aztec pictography can express complex aspects of embodied meaning Her study offers an innovative approach to nonphonographic semiotic systems as created in many world cultures and expands our understanding of human recorded visual communication This book will be essential reading for scholars and readers interested in the history of religions Mesoamerican studies and the ancient civilizations of the Americas This excellent book written with intellectual courage and critical self awareness is a brilliant multilayered thought experiment into the images and stories that made up the Nahua sense of reality as woven into their sensational ritual performances and colorful symbolic writing system Dav d Carrasco
