

Naive, Irish and seventeen years old, Bridget Dowling fell in love with Adolf Hitler's striking half brother, Alois. They left Ireland to marry and settled in England, in Liverpool, in 1916.

This revealing and intimate account of Bridget's relationship with the Hitler family makes fascinating reading. Adolf's 'missing year' is plausibly accounted for; in 1912 Alois and Bridget meet the future Führer off the train at Liverpool's Lime Street station. He is dirty, dishevelled and ill and in a difficult quest in their home for several months.

Bridget's marriage breaks down and Alois disappears; at eighteen, their son, William Patrick, decides to renew contact with his German uncle. Tension builds up when he makes several visits to Germany, finally deciding to seek employment there from 'Uncle Adolf'. Bridget follows him to Berlin in 1937. Her meeting with the Führer at his idyllic residence in the Bavarian alps shows just how far the 'spinster' young man of 1912 has changed. How she, and later her son, manage to escape the watchful eyes of Adolf and his bodyguards, makes this a gripping adventure story.

These Memoirs cast new light on Adolf Hitler and his immediate family, particularly his extraordinary relationship with his niece. The unusually informal photographs portray a new side of the Führer.

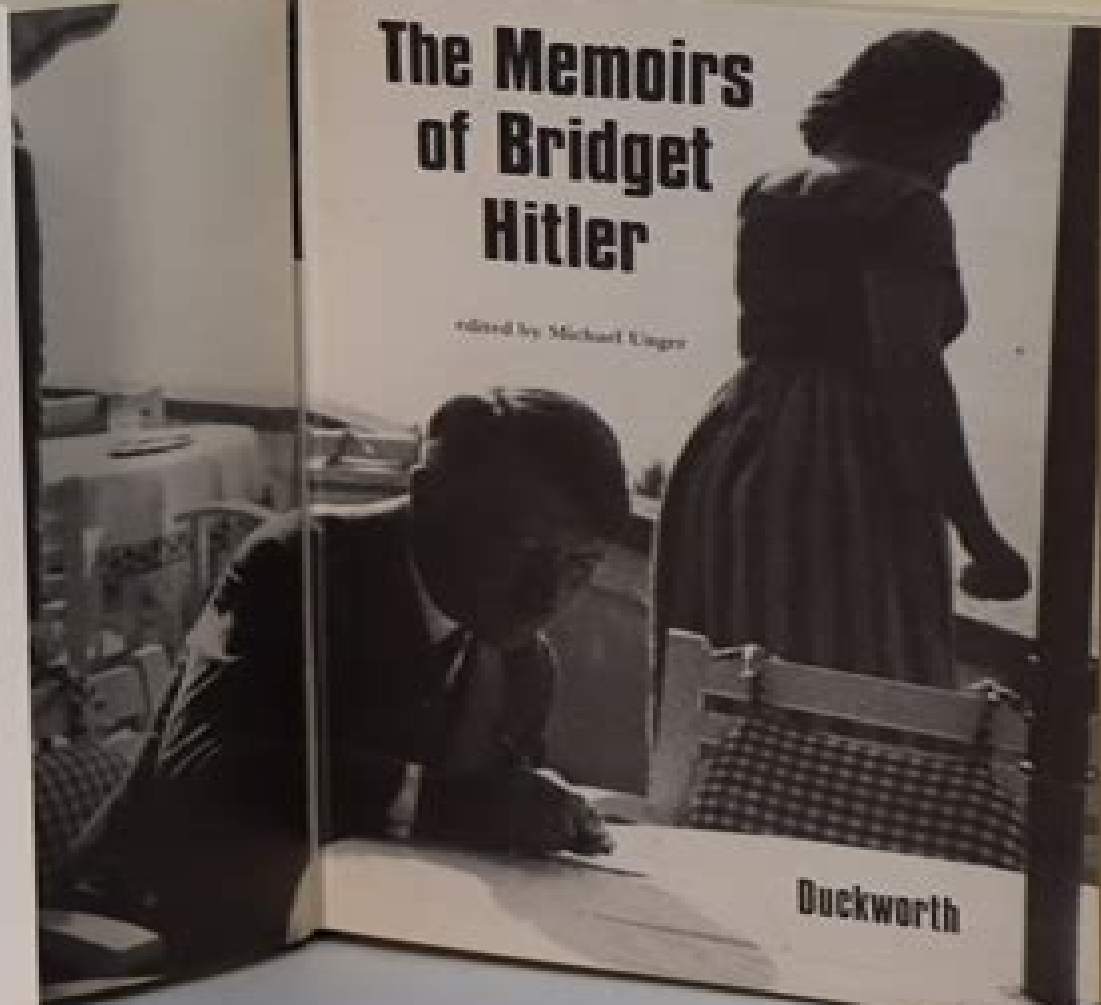

The original of Bridget Hitler's memoirs is in the manuscript division of the New York Public Library. It ends in mid-sentence. Though much consulted by Hitler's biographers, it has never before been published in full. In his introduction, Michael Unger of the Liverpool Daily Post tells what is known of the manuscript's history.
