The Middle East Military Balance 2000 2001:

The Middle East Military Balance, 2000-2001 ,2001      The Middle East Military Balance, 2001-2002 Shlomo Brom,Yiftah Shapir,2002 Up to date authoritative information on military capabilities in the Middle East The explosion of violence between Israelis and Palestinians that began in late 2000 is a tragic reminder of the potential for armed conflict in the Middle East Although many developments in the 1990s appeared to have reduced the likelihood of war in the region stability between Israel and its Arab neighbors remains tenuous Security in the Persian Gulf also remains uncertain as Iran and Iraq have continued their pursuit of weapons of mass destruction Understanding the dynamics of security in the Middle East requires detailed information on the military capabilities of the region s countries The Middle East Military Balance is prepared annually by the Jaffee Center for Strategic Studies in Tel Aviv It is based on data from many sources including some that are unavailable to other institutes With its wealth of current hard to find information it offers an authoritative and indispensable guide to military capabilities in the Middle East Governments the media and researchers pay close attention to its data and analysis each year      The Military Balance in the Middle East Anthony H. Cordesman,2004-09-30 Noted Middle East military expert Anthony H Cordesman details the complex trends that come into play in determining the military balance in a region that has become so critical to world peace This ready resource provides a wealth of information on military expenditures and major arms systems as well as qualitative trends by country and by zone However as Cordesman stresses because the greater Middle East is more a matter of rhetoric than military reality mere data summarizing trends in 23 different countries is no substitute for a substantive explanation Using tables graphs and charts this study explores every aspect of the regional military balance with attention to sub regional balances internal civil conflicts and low level border tensions The Middle East is certainly one of the most militarized areas in the world and changes in technology access to weapons of mass destruction and political instability contribute to a situation that has long been in constant flux Some of the regional flashpoints covered in this study include the Maghreb North Africa the Arab Israeli conflict dominated by Israel versus Syria and the Gulf divided into those states that view Iran as the primary threat and those who lived in fear of Iraq Internal conflicts such as those in Mauritania Algeria Libya Egypt Sudan Bahrain Saudi Arabia Iraq and Yemen increasingly dominate regional tensions In addition border conflicts within the region and with neighboring countries could further aggravate the delicate balance      Comrades No More Renee De Nevers,2003-06-20 In 1989 Soviet control over Eastern Europe ended when the communist regimes of the Warsaw Pact collapsed These momentous and largely bloodless events set the stage for the end of the Cold War and ushered in a new era in international politics Why did communism collapse relatively peacefully in Eastern Europe Why did these changes occur in 1989 after more than four decades of communist rule Why did this upheaval happen almost simultaneously in most of the Warsaw Pact In Comrades No More Renee de Nevers examines how internal and external factors interacted in the collapse of East European communism She argues that Gorbachev's reforms in the Soviet Union were necessary to start the process of political change in Eastern Europe but domestic factors in each communist state determined when and how each country abandoned communism. A demonstration effect emerged as Hungary and Poland introduced reforms and showed that Moscow would not intervene to prevent political and economic changes. De Nevers analyzes the process of change in Hungary, Poland, Bulgaria, the German Democratic Republic, Czechoslovakia, and Romania. She traces the pattern of reform in each country and shows how these patterns influenced their postcommunist political evolution.

Progress in International Relations Theory Colin Elman, Miriam Fendius Elman, 2003-08-29 All academic disciplines periodically appraise their effectiveness evaluating the progress of previous scholarship and judging which approaches are useful and which are not. Although no field could survive if it did nothing but appraise its progress, occasional appraisals are important and if done well can help advance the field. This book investigates how international relations theorists can better equip themselves to determine the state of scholarly work in their field. It takes as its starting point Imre Lakatos's influential theory of scientific change and in particular his methodology of scientific research programs (MSRP). It uses MSRP to organize its analysis of major research programs over the last several decades and uses MSRP's criteria for theoretical progress to evaluate these programs. The contributors appraise the progress of institutional theory, varieties of realist and liberal theory, operational code analysis, and other research programs in international relations. Their analyses reveal the strengths and limits of Lakatosian criteria and the need for metatheoretical metrics for evaluating scientific progress.

The Global Arms Trade Andrew T. H. Tan, 2014-05-22 The Global Arms Trade is a timely comprehensive and in-depth study of this topic, a phenomenon which has continued to flourish despite the end of the Cold War and the preoccupation with global terrorism after 11 September 2001. It provides a clear description and analysis of the demand for and supply of modern weapons systems and assesses key issues of concern. This book will be especially useful to scholars, policy analysts, those in the arms industry, defence professionals, students of international relations and security studies, media professionals, government officials, and those generally interested in the arms trade.
