The Mercy of Allah Hilaire Belloc, 1922 In the days of Abd er Rahman who was among the wisest and most glorious of the Commanders of the Faithful there resided in the City of Bagdad an elderly merchant of such enormous wealth that his lightest expressions of opinion caused the markets of the Euphrates to fluctuate in the most alarming manner This merchant whose name was Mahmoud had a brother in the middle ranks of Society a surgeon by profession and by name El Hakim To this brother he had frequently expressed a fixed determination to leave him no wealth of any kind It is my opinion he would say that a man's first duty is to his own children and though I have no children myself I must observe the general rule He was fond of dilating upon this subject whenever he came across his relative and would discover from time to time new and still better reasons for the resolution he had arrived at His brother received with great courtesy the prospect held out to him by the wealthy merchant but one day finding tedious the hundredth repetition of that person's pious but somewhat wearisome resolve said to him Mahmoud though it would be a mean and even an impious thing to expect an inheritance from you to any of my seven sons yet perhaps you will allow these boys to receive from your lips some hint as to the manner in which you have accumulated that great wealth which you now so deservedly enjoy
