Narcissistic Parenting in an Insecure World Harry Hendrick, 2016-07-06 In this provocative history of parenting Harry Hendrick analyses the social and economic reasons behind parenting trends He shows how broader social changes including neoliberalism feminism the collapse of the social democratic ideal and the new behaviourism have led to the rise of the anxious and narcissistic parent The book charts the shift from the liberal and progressive parenting styles of the 1940s 70s to the more behavioural punitive and managerial methods of childrearing today made popular by experts such as Gina Ford and Supernanny Jo Frost and by New Labour s parent education programmes This trend Hendrick argues is symptomatic of the sour mean spirited and vindictive social norms found throughout society today It undermines the better instincts of parents and therefore damages parent child relations Instead he proposes parents should focus on understanding and helping their children as they work at growing up

The silent morning Trudi Tate, Kate Kennedy, 2016-01-04 This is the first book to study the cultural impact of the Armistice of 11 November 1918 It contains 14 new essays from scholars working in literature music art history and military history The Armistice brought hopes for a better future as well as sadness disappointment and rage Many people in all the combatant nations asked hard questions about the purpose of the war These questions are explored in complex and nuanced ways in the literature music and art of the period This book revisits the silence of the Armistice and asks how its effect was to echo into the following decades The essays are genuinely interdisciplinary and are written in a clear accessible style
