Health Communication for the Prevention of Gender-Based Violence Given Mutinta, 2025-10-19 This book highlights the role of traditional media in shaping public perceptions of gender based violence and how digital media has revolutionised health communication It also discusses the potential of indigenous communication tools such as folktales and oral traditions to prevent gender based violence in marginalised communities The book highlights the need for partnerships between organisations healthcare providers and community leaders to enhance resource sharing and adapt to evolving community needs and underscores how continuous monitoring and evaluation of these programmes are crucial for a successful fight against gender based violence The book argues that evidence based recommendations for improving health communication efforts and increasing awareness can help create a more secure and equitable society Art Therapy Treatment with Sex Trafficking Survivors Mary K. Kometiani, 2019-10-16 This groundbreaking book introduces and researches art therapy as a creative and effective treatment for the sensitive and pertinent issue of human sex trafficking Rich empirical examples and best practices are provided through the contributors expertise and knowledge in the field of art therapy Art therapy facilitates emotional catharsis a personal sense of worth and empowerment through making choices supports connection to others and the inner self resolves trauma grief and shame and provides hope for the future and recovery This book explores art therapy interventions and outcomes through detailed case studies for sex trafficking survivors in the United States India and Nepal and includes international recommendations for survivor treatment and recovery as well as staff support programming Professional helpers and learners from mental health social services medical care and those who work with trafficking and sexual abuse survivors will benefit from this guide The Medical Library Association Encyclopedic Guide to Searching and Finding Health Information on the Web: Diseases and disorders P. F. Anderson, Nancy J. Allee, 2004 Annotation Searching for health information may be the most important type of search a librarian performs in a day Instead of starting a health care search with a blank computer screen or simply accessing ordinary information available most anywhere on the Web start with help from the prestigious Medical Library Association Each entry will show you how an experienced health sciences librarian would approach the question You can begin a truly valuable search knowing Special searching issues What to ask Where to start Supplementary search strategies Topic profile Recommended search terms and important sites Hotline phone numbers FAQs Publications on the Internet Professional organizations Patient support organizations and discussion groups Best One Stop Shops Finally there s one ready reference source written by librarians to help their colleagues that covers every important aspect of the question you or your user want to answer Accounts of Innocence Joseph E. Davis, 2005 Since a new sensitivity and orientation to victims of injustice arose in the 1960s categories of victimization have proliferated Large numbers of people are now characterized and characterize themselves as sufferers of psychological injury caused by the actions of others In contrast with the familiar critiques of victim culture Accounts of Innocence offers a new and empirically rich perspective on the question of why we now place such psychological significance on victimization in people s lives Focusing on the case of adult survivors of childhood sexual abuse Joseph E Davis shows how the idea of innocence shaped the emergence of trauma psychology and continues to inform accounts of the past and hopes for the future in therapy with survivor clients His findings shed new light on the ongoing debate over recovered memories of abuse They challenge the notion that victim accounts are an evasion of personal responsibility And they suggest important ways in which trauma psychology has had unintended and negative consequences for how victims see themselves and for how others relate to them An important intervention in the study of victimization in our culture Accounts of Innocence will interest scholars of clinical psychology social work and sociology as well as therapists and victim activists Encyclopedia of Primary Prevention and Health Promotion Thomas P. Gullotta, Martin Bloom, 2003-01-31 Foundational topics such as history ethics and principles of primary prevention as well as specific issues such as consultation political issues and financing The second section addresses such topics as abuse depression eating disorders HIV AIDS injuries and religion and spirituality often dividing such topics into separate entries addressing childhood adolescence and adulthood Surviving a Competitive Health Care Market Jana B.
