at St Helena where the imprisoned Napoleon was pointed out to him He was educated at schools in Southampton and Chiswick and then at Charterhouse School William Makepeace Thackeray 18 July 1811 24 December 1863 was an English novelist of the 19th century He is famous for his satirical works particularly Vanity Fair a panoramic portrait of English society During the Victorian era Thackeray was ranked second only to Charles Dickens but he is now much less widely read and is known almost exclusively for Vanity Fair which has become a fixture in university courses and has been repeatedly adapted for the cinema and television In Thackeray's own day some commentators such as Anthony Trollope ranked his History of Henry Esmond as his greatest work perhaps because it expressed Victorian values of duty and earnestness as did some of his other later novels It is perhaps for this reason that they have not survived as well as Vanity Fair which satirises those values Thackeray saw himself as writing in the realistic tradition and distinguished his work from the exaggerations and sentimentality of Dickens Some later commentators have accepted this self evaluation and seen him as a realist but others note his inclination to use eighteenth century narrative techniques such as digressions and direct addresses to the reader and argue that through them he frequently disrupts the illusion of reality The school of Henry James with its emphasis on maintaining that illusion marked a break with Thackeray's techniques In 1887 the Royal Society of Arts unveiled a blue plaque to commemorate Thackeray at the house at 2 Palace Green London that had been built for him in the 1860s published as a single volume in 1848 with the subtitle A Novel without a Hero reflecting Thackeray's interest in deconstructing his era's conventions regarding literary heroism. It is sometimes considered the principal founder of the Victorian domestic novel. Thackeray, *Vanity Fair Robin Gilmour, 1982 Vanity Fair William Makepeace Thackeray, 2018-10-08 Vanity Fair Volume 3 By William Makepeace Thackeray and the grief of that moment was considerably lessened by the admirable discourse which Miss Pinkerton addressed to her pupil. Not that the parting speech caused Amelia to philosophise or that it armed her in any way with a calmness the result of argument but it was intolerably dull pompous and tedious and having the fear of her schoolmistress greatly before her eyes Miss Sedley did not venture in her presence to give way to any ebullitions of private grief. A seed cake and a bottle of wine were produced in the drawing room as on the solemn occasions of the visits of parents and these refreshments being partaken of Miss Sedley was at liberty to depart.
