The Age of Videography Brian McKernan, 1996 Excelsior, You Fathead! Eugene B. Bergmann, 2006-01-01

Jean Shepherd 1921 1999 master humorist is best known for his creation A Christmas Story the popular movie about the child who wants a BB gun for Christmas and nearly shoots his eye out What else did Shepherd do He is considered by many to be the Mark Twain and James Thurber of his day For many thousands of fans for decades Shep talked on the radio late at night keeping them up way past their bedtimes He entertained without a script improvising like a jazz musician on any and every subject you can imagine He invented and remains the master of talk radio Shepherd perpetrated one of the great literary hoaxes of all time promoting a nonexistent book and author and then brought the book into existence He wrote 23 short stories for Playboy four times winning their humor of the year award and also interviewed The Beatles for the magazine He authored several popular books of humor and satire created several television series and acted in several plays He is the model for the character played by Jason Robards in the play and movie A Thousand Clowns as well as the inspiration for the Shel Silverstein song made famous by Johnny Cash A Boy Named Sue Readers will learn the significance of innumerable Shepherd words and phrases such as Excelsior you fathead and observe his constant confrontations with the America he loved They will get to know and understand this multitalented genius by peeking behind the wall he built for himself a wall to hide a different and less agreeable persona Through interviews with his friends co workers and creative associates such as musician David Amram cartoonist and playwright Jules Feiffer publisher and broadcaster Paul Krassner and author Norman Mailer the book explains a complex and unique genius of our time Shepherd pretty much invented talk radio What I got of him was a wonder at the world one man could create I am as awed now by his achievement as I was then Richard Corliss Time magazine online The Independent Film & Videomaker's Guide Michael Wiese, 1998 Updated to reflect the technology and business environment of independent filmmaking in the 1990s this is a step by step guide for the beginning producer who is serious about filmmaking not only as a craft but also as a business Media Industries in the Digital Age Amanda D. Lotz, Timothy Havens, 2024-11-18 The digital communication technologies that emerged at the turn of the century have profoundly disrupted long practiced norms of nearly every media industry In particular internet distribution has fundamentally changed the foundation of the media industry to enable the emergence of new sectors while posing a challenge for others Media Industries in the Digital Age reframes our understanding of media businesses in the light of these substantial changes To develop an integrated understanding of media industries today the book foregrounds the different funding sources that are now common It begins by mapping the foundations and developments of media industry operation and exploring all forms of advertiser funded and consumer funded media to identify connections across sectors including digital and legacy media The final section grounds the book's conceptual work in examples of media making to explore how some old media have successfully adapted to internet disruption and the differences and similarities of media making outside of corporations Looking to the future the book anticipates implications for the emerging metaverse media experiences and the key issues generative AI poses to the sector Ultimately the book argues that the contemporary differences in media industry operation vary by sector but meaningful patterns can be identified by considering how advertiser consumer or government funding sets different priorities Offering a new and original way of understanding the media industries today this book is enlightening reading for students and scholars of media studies and media industries as well as global industry professionals

How We See Us Michaela M Leslie-Rule, 2025-07-17 A compelling appeal to center the perspectives of young people to support them in mapping pathways to future success

Cinema Futures Thomas Elsaesser, Kay Hoffmann, 1998 Cinema Futures Cain Abel or Cable presents a careful and forceful argument about predictions that tend to be made when new technologies appear Examining the complex dynamics of convergence and divergence among the audio visual media the authors are realistic in their estimate of the future of the cinema's aesthetic identity and robustly optimistic that the different social needs audiences bring to the public and domestic media will ensure their distinctiveness as well as the necessary openness of cultural meaning and creative input
