Consumer Behavior over the Life Course George P. Moschis, 2019-01-31 This book examines consumer behavior using the life course paradigm a multidisciplinary framework for studying people's lives structural contexts and social change It contributes to marketing research by providing new insights into the study of consumer behavior and illustrating how to apply the life course paradigm's concepts and theoretical perspectives to study consumer topics in an innovative way Although a growing number of marketing researchers either implicitly or explicitly subscribe to life course perspectives for studying a variety of consumer behaviors their efforts have been limited due to a lack of theories and methods that would help them study consumers over the lifecycle When studying consumers over their lifespan researchers examine differences in the consumer behaviors of various age groups e.g. children baby boomers elderly etc or family life stages e.g. bachelors full nesters empty nesters etc inferring that consumer behavior changes over time or linking consumption behaviors to previous experiences and future expectations Such efforts however have yet to benefit from an interdisciplinary research approach This book fills this gap in consumer research by informing readers about the differences between some of the most commonly used models for studying consumers over their lifespan and the life course paradigm and providing implications for research public policy and marketing practice Presenting applications of the life course approach in such research topics as decision making maladaptive behaviors e.g. compulsive buying binge eating consumer well being and cognitive decline this book is beneficial for students scholars professors practitioners and policy makers in consumer behavior consumer research consumer psychology and marketing research
