studying the memorialisation of the 2002 Gujarat pogrom postcolonial India's most litigated and mediatized event of anti Muslim mass violence By reading judgments and films on the pogrom through a novel interpretive framework the book argues that the shared narrative of law and cinema engenders ways of remembering the pogrom in which the rationality of secular law offers a resolution to the irrationality of religious violence In the public's collective memory the force of this rationality simultaneously condemns and normalises violence against Muslims while exonerating secular law from its role in enabling the pogrom thus keeping the violent legal order against India's Muslim citizens intact The book contends that in foregrounding law's aesthetic dimensions we see the discursive ways in which secular law organizes violence and presents itself as the panacea for that very violence

Dispute Processes Michael Palmer, Simon Roberts, 2020-07-09 This new edition considers a wide range of materials dealing with dispute processes and current debates on civil justice

Electrified Democracy Andrew Blick, 2021-07 An examination in historical context of the approach the UK Parliament has taken towards the Internet and its wider implications

Film and Constitutional Controversy Marco Wan, 2021-02-04 In modern day Hong Kong major constitutional controversies have caused people to demonstrate on the streets immigrate to other countries occupy major thoroughfares and even engage in violence These controversies have such great resonance because they put pressure on a cultural identity made possible by and inseparable from the One Country Two Systems framework Hong Kong is also a city synonymous with film ranging from commercial gangster movies to the art cinema of Wong Kar wai This book argues that while the importance of constitutional controversies for the process of self formation may not be readily discernible in court judgments and legislative enactments it is registered in the diverse modes of expression found in Hong Kong cinema It contends that film gives form to the ways in which Hong Kong identity is articulated placed under stress bolstered and transformed in light of disputes about the nature and meaning of the city's constitutional documents

Gender, Law and Justice in a Global Market Ann Stewart, 2011-08-25 Theories of gender justice in the twenty first century must engage with global economic and social processes Using concepts from economic analysis associated with global commodity chains and feminist ethics of care Ann Stewart considers the way in which gender contracts relating to work and care contribute to gender inequalities worldwide She explores how economies in the global north stimulate desires and create deficits in care and belonging which are met through transnational movements and traces the way in which transnational economic processes discourses of rights and care create relationships between global south and north African women produce fruit and flowers for European consumption body workers migrate to meet deficits in affect through provision of care and sex British Asian families seek belonging through transnational marriages

British Islam and English Law Patrick S. Nash, 2022-01-27 British Islam and English Law presents a novel argument about the nature and place of groups in society The encounter with Islam has led English law to tread a line between two theoretical models liberal individualism and multiculturalism competing for dominance over the law of organised religion This philosophical rivalry has generated a set of seemingly intractable conflicts between individual and community religion and state nation and culture This book resurrects the long buried theory of classical pluralism to address and resolve these tensions Applying this to five understudied institutions that give structure and form to British Islam banks charities schools elections clans it outlines and justifies the reforms that would optimise the relationship between law and religion Unflinching and unorthodox this book places law and theory in context employs innovative methods such as nudge theory and applied history and provides detailed answers to hard questions about British Islam
