those captured from satellites for the exploration and management of cultural heritage An unparalleled resource for archaeologists and all with an interest in landscapes images spanning the second half of the 20th century provide an unrivalled means of documenting and understanding change and informing the study of the past Case studies written by leading experts in their fields illustrate the applications of this imagery across a wide range of heritage issues from prehistoric cultivation and settlement patterns to the impact of recent landscape change Contemporary environmental and land use issues are also dealt with in a volume that will be of interest to archaeologists historians geographers and those in Operation Crossbow Allan Williams, 2013-05-30 The story of the photographic intelligence work undertaken from a country house at Medmenham Buckinghamshire is one of the great lost stories of the Second World War At its peak in 1944 almost 2 000 British and American men and women worked at the top secret Danesfield House interpreting photographs the majority stereoscopic so they could be viewed in 3D to unlock secrets of German military activity and weapons development Millions of aerial photographs were taken by Allied pilots flying unarmed modified Spitfires and Mosquitos on missions over Nazi Europe it was said that an aircraft could land the photographs be developed and initial interpretation completed within two hours marking the culmination of years of experiments in aerial intelligence techniques Their finest hour began in 1943 during the planning stages of the Allied invasion of Europe when Douglas Kendall who masterminded the interpretation work at Medmenham led the hunt for Hitler's secret weapons Operation Crossbow would grow from a handful of photographic interpreters to the creation of a hand picked team and came to involve interpreters from across the Medmenham spectrum including the team of aircraft specialists led by the redoubtable Constance Babington Smith In November that year whilst analysing photographs of Peenemunde in northern Germany they spotted a small stunted aircraft on a ramp This intelligence breakthrough linked the Nazi research station with a growing network of sites in northern France where ramps were being constructed aligned not only with London but targets throughout southern Britain Through the combined skill and dedication of the Crossbow team and the heroism of the Allied pilots throughout late 1943 and 1944 V weapon launch sites were located and through countermeasures destroyed saving hundreds of thousands of lives and changing the course of the war Operation Crossbow is a wonderful story of human endeavour and derring do told for the first time The Conquest of the Air Wembley, England. British Empire Exhibition, 1925 The Castle in Medieval England and Wales Colin Platt, 1982 The Aerofilms Book of England from the Air Annabel Walker (journaliste).),1988 Historic England: Hampshire Philip MacDougall, 2019-04-15 An illustrated history of one of Britain's finest counties Hampshire Using photographs taken from the unique Historic England England's Motoring Heritage from the Air John Minnis, 2014 The arrival of aerial photography came at a Archive particularly significant moment in terms of the visual appearance of England This selection of photographs makes use of the Aerofilms collection acquired by English Heritage in 2007 When Aerofilms fliers first went up in the skies in 1919 they captured a country that had more or less been preserved in aspic in 1914 What we are looking at in many of the earliest photographs in this book is essentially Edwardian England with towns and villages generally quite compact with fields reaching almost up to the High Streets in many cases and little sign of the sprawl that was to engulf them in the 1920s and 30s This fantastically illustrated book shows just how radically that position changed over the ensuing half century We trace the outward expansion of places brought about by the availability of the car the new suburbs and ribbon development We see how new arterial roads came into being to meet the needs of motor transport and how the centre of cities start to be rebuilt to accommodate it We witness the growth of sprawl around road junctions on the edge of built up areas and the arrival of new types of building there to service both cars and people the filling station the roadhouse We see how the car encouraged more people to go further afield for sport and pleasure to the seaside the races or to new forms of attractions such as the amusement park in the country And we see how public transport changes over the period from trams to buses with the advent of new facilities such as bus stations. The scale of traffic congestion becomes apparent by the late 1930s. In addition the impact on the landscape of large motor factories and provision for motor sport is made clear National Union Catalog ,1982 Includes entries for maps and atlases National Union Catalog, 1979 Library of Congress, 1980 The Changing Face of England Christopher Trent, 1974 British Librarianship and Information Work, 1976
