A Fly for the Prosecution M. Lee Goff,2001-09-01 The forensic entomologist turns a dispassionate analytic eye on scenes from which most people would recoil human corpses in various stages of decay usually the remains of people who have met a premature end through accident or mayhem To Lee Goff and his fellow forensic entomologists each body recovered at a crime scene is an ecosystem a unique microenvironment colonized in succession by a diverse array of flies beetles mites spiders and other arthropods some using the body to provision their young some feeding directly on the tissues and by products of decay and still others preying on the scavengers Using actual cases on which he has consulted Goff shows how knowledge of these insects and their habits allows forensic entomologists to furnish investigators with crucial evidence about crimes Even when a body has been reduced to a skeleton insect evidence can often provide the only available estimate of the postmortem interval or time elapsed since death as well as clues to whether the body has been moved from the original crime scene and whether drugs have contributed to the death An experienced forensic investigator who regularly advises law enforcement agencies in the United States and abroad Goff is uniquely qualified to tell the fascinating if unsettling story of the development and practice of forensic entomology
