An Historical Atlas of Lincolnshire Stewart Bennett, N. H. Bennett, 1993

RAF and USAAF Airfields in the UK During the Second World War Geoff Mills, Daniel Knowles, 2022-03-31 Shortly after the end of the Second World War the United Kingdom was described as one vast aircraft carrier anchored off the coast of Europe During a seven year period 500 airfields were constructed to serve the needs first of the RAF and later the USAAF as they carried the war to German occupied Europe The airfields that were constructed took many different forms from training airfields and Advanced Landing Grounds to grass fighter airstrips and vast complexes used to accommodate heavy bombers This book charts the history of each Second World War airfield in and around the UK providing a unique insight in to the construction operational life and post war history of each airfield Alongside detailing the history of each airfield this work comprehensively records the details of each unit that operated from airfields around the UK The information provided in this meticulously researched book is supported by a wealth of 690 photographs providing an illustration into the life of each wartime station

Geology and Warfare Edward P. F. Rose, C. Paul Nathanail, 2000 Records lessons learnt from military experience in World War I and II It also contains perspectives from America which show how in warfare military geologists irrespective of nationality have pursued tactical and strategic terrain analysis fortifications and tunnelling and resource acquisition defence installations and field constructions and logistics It shows how in peace time military geologists train for wartime operations and may be involved in peace keeping and nation building deployments

Twentieth Century Industrial Archaeology Michael Stratton, Barrie Trinder, 2014-04-04 This book examines the industrial monuments of twentieth century Britain Each chapter takes a specific theme and examines it in the context of the buildings and structure of the twentieth century The authors are both leading experts in the field having written widely on various aspects of the subject In this new and comprehensive survey they respond to the growing interest in twentieth century architecture and industrial archaeology The book is well illustrated with superb and unique illustrations drawn from the archives of the Royal Commission on the Historical Monuments of England It will mark and celebrate the end of the century with a tribute to its remarkable built industrial heritage reappearance of Argentina's disappeared World War II concentration camps Reckless Fellows Edward Bujak, 2015-09-25

The Royal Flying Corps later the Royal Air Force was formed in 1912 and went to war in 1914 where it played a vital role in reconnaissance supporting the British Expeditionary Force as air cavalry and also in combat establishing air superiority over the Imperial German Air Force Edward Bujak here combines the history of the air war including details of strategy tactics technical issues and combat with a social and cultural history The RFC was originally dominated by the landed elite in Lloyd George's phrase from the stateliest houses in England and its pilots were regarded as knights of the air Harlaxton Manor in Lincolnshire seat of landed gentry became their major training base Bujak shows how within the circle of the RFC the class divide and unconscious superiority of Edwardian Britain disappeared absorbed by common purpose technical expertise and by an influx of pilots from Canada Australia New Zealand and South Africa He thus provides an original and unusual take on the air war in World War I combining military social and cultural history Historic Airports Bob Hawkins, Gabriele Lechner, Paul Smith, 2005 The realisation of mankind's age old dream of flight is probably one of the collective adventures that best characterises the century we have just left its greatest novelty In the space of only three or four generations aviation has conquered the entire planet and international airports have developed into sleepless cities At the beginning of 1999 the European Commission sponsored an international project on aviation's architectural heritage set up at the instigation of the French Ministry of Culture together with English Heritage and Landesdenkmalamt Berlin the official heritage body of the German capital The project's primary aim was to contribute to the better understanding and conservation of aviation architecture focusing on three pilot sites Berlin Tempelhof Paris Le Bourget and Liverpool Speke all rare survivors from the late 1930s An international network of expertise on aviation architecture grew out of three international workshops the proceedings of which are presented here Through contributions from historians architects development agencies and airline companies among others the book examines how best to identify and preserve the sites worth keeping the place of the airport in the 21st century city and the future of our historic airports Twentieth Century Lincolnshire Dennis R. Mills, 1989 School of Aces Alastair Goodrum, 2019-06-15 This is the fascinating true story of RAF Sutton Bridge Between 1926 and 1946 the base saw the development and implementation of a training system that turned inexperienced pilots into Top Guns 400 graduates and staff fought with The Few to win the Battle of Britain The Lincolnshire Wolds David N. Robinson, 2009 The chalk capped Lincolnshire Wolds contain the highest land between Yorkshire and Kent affording enormous views to Lincoln Cathedral to the sea and over the fens Most of the Wolds was designated an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty in 1973 and this is the first book of its kind to focus on an AONB and its setting as a living and working landscape It contains a collection of 14 essays and nine vignettes about geology and scenery landscape history and management farming bomber stations biodiversity tourism and the Wolds countryside in literature and art It is illustrated by nearly 100 photographs paintings maps and diagrams Publisher's description Radical Space

Debra Benita Shaw, Maggie Humm, 2016-03-24 The spatial turn in the Humanities and Social Sciences has produced a considerable body of work which re assesses space beyond the fixed Cartesian co ordinates of Modernity and the nation state In the process space has been revealed as a productively contested concept with methodological implications across and between disciplines The resulting understandings of space as fluid changeable and responsive to the situation of bodies both human and non human has prepared the ground for radical concepts and uses of space with implications for how we conceive of contemporary lived reality Rather than conceiving of bodies as constantly rendered docile within the spaces of the post industrial nation state Radical Space reveals how activists and artists have deployed these theoretical tools to examine and contest spatial practice Bringing together contributions from academics across the humanities and social sciences together with creative artists this dynamically multidisciplinary collection demonstrates this radicalization of space through explorations of environmental camps new explorations of psychogeography creative interventions in city space and mapping the extra terrestrial onto the mundane spaces of everyday existence 1 Group: Swift to Attack Patrick Otter, Stuart Atha, 2013-03-19 Following the recent unveiling of the monument to Bomber Command in London s Green Park the publication of this lovingly crafted account of the exploits of oft overlooked 1 Group is set to be a timely one Patrick Otter combines an appropriate level of detail regarding operations aircraft bases and incidents with accounts of human endurance and squadron fraternity which works to create a thoroughly well researched account of the wartime proceedings of 1 Group which is rooted firmly in humanity The book is heavily illustrated throughout with both images of aircraft and pilot profiles supplementing the text perfectly and working further to humanize the accounts which the author relays as well as satisfying the Aviation buffs curiosity for new and interesting images of aircraft in their wartime contexts Although often considered a somewhat controversial operational unit the bravery of the men who made up Bomber Command has never been in question This book is further testament to that fact Twentieth Century Defence of Britain Mike Osborne, 1997 This volume examines the 20th century defence of Britain as part of a series covering military archaeology in the United Kingdom The project was a response to growing concern about Britain s recent defence heritage and about the rate at which many historically significant structures were succumbing to demolition or neglect Air Pictorial , 1999 The Polish Air Force in Lincolnshire Michael J.
