The United States Constitution has already been interpreted to provide a variety of family related protections which if applied consistently also protect same sex couples and their children Only by radically reformulating and severely undermining existing protections can courts and commentators justify the claim that the Federal Constitution does not offer a wealth of family protections including the right to marry a same sex partner Discussing the constitutional implications of civil unions with a special focus on how they might be treated in the interstate context Strasser explains how the courts and commentators have reworked and significantly weakened a variety of constitutional protections in their attempts to establish that same sex couples are not afforded constitutional protections He further suggests that the constitutional protections for religion support rather than undermine the constitutional protection of same sex unions
