1. Serene Waters

In waters cool, a world unfolds,
Where liquid dreams and stories are told.
Beneath the sun's warm, golden gleam,
I dive into this tranquil stream.

2. Dance of the Dolphins

Beneath the sky's expanse so wide,
Where waves and dreams coincide,
Dolphins leap in graceful glee,
A dance of joy, forever free.

3. The Mermaid's Song

Beneath the moon's enchanting light,
Where stars adorn the velvet night,
A mermaid's song echoes through,
Her secrets held in shades of blue.

Swimmer Poems:

The Swimmer John Koethe, 2025-09-23 A searching new collection from America's philosopher poet John Koethe in his tenth volume of poetry investigates the capricious nature of everyday life the late night jazz great sex and all The human shit defining what we are His poems always dynamic and in process never static or complete luxuriate in the questions that punctuate the most humdrum of routines rendering a robust portrait of an individual complicated quotidian and resounding with truth The Swimmer argues that this energizes everything life's trivialities surprises and disappointments and the terrible feeling of being just about to fall The Swimmer Susan G. Ludvigson, 1984-06-01 In The Swimmer Susan Ludvigson writes of the enveloping sensuality of swimming gliding beneath the waves basking in shimmering light on the surface drifting in the pleasure of the water In these poems swimming can be the perfect escape from life a sublime refuge from the cares and agonies that lie on the shore or wait at the edge of the pool Ludvigson begins with poems that speak of the griefs that punctuate life She writes of the fearsome mysteries of passion the agonies that can be reawakened by memory the sabotage of dreams the sadness of living in a world painfully contracted by the deaths of loved ones It's not the world I care about now but a few lives Yours Mine The friends who go on dying After Don after Anne I can hardly believe how it continues She then turns to poems that seek escape from grief in the dark humor of obscure news items Man Arrested in Hacking Death Tells Police He mistook Mother in Law for Raccoon and in the absorbing depths of art But these are escapes of the mind momentary transformations of identity that cannot finally bring calm to the spirit In the final section of the book Ludvigson returns to the lure of the water Under that starry sky you'll float in the shadows of shadows there might be no end to it just water darkening into night then slowly restoring itself to blue The silence will be a new entrance to dreams sleep a new way to breathe Sensual and moving these are poems of renewal and of loss poems that seek the moments of calm amid the jagged hours of daily life Swimming The Hellespont - Selected Poems: 1971-2001 Jesse Mavro Diamond, 2015-07-03 All good things take time says a fictionalized Pablo Neruda in the poem that opens this book which itself took many years to write Full of energy passion and telling detail Swimming the Hellespont is peopled with memorable characters Using a variety of forms ranging from prose poems reminiscent of Gertrude Stein to sonnets and imitation Sapphic stanzas Diamond creates a haunting record of one woman's journey through three politically charged and life changing decades Martha Collins for writing in the classroom Seeking a Home for Poetry in a Nomadic World Silvia Panicieri, 2020-01-28 This thoroughly researched overview on one of the most absorbing literary phenomena of recent decades the trespassing of cultural and linguistic borders departs from the canonical point of view offered by the English works of the Nobel laureate Russian American poet and essayist Joseph Brodsky to approach the work of the emerging Hungarian English poet Gábor Lehoczky Through the epistemological filter offered by some guiding texts such as Bauman Hall Braidotti and many others this study allows the reader to discover the recounting of a search for an identity where the adoption of English as an artistic vehicle is only the first thread that unites the two nomadic authors Striving to locate language and identity Brodsky and Lehoczky face the limits of doing so due to the fluid and nomadic nature of language itself This suggests if not answers then new ways of expression which draw the language of our future Swimming at Midnight John Matthias, 1995 Swimming at Midnight collects the short and middle length poems from John Matthias's earlier books together with twenty poems that have previously appeared only in magazines It is published simultaneously with Beltane at Aphelion which includes all of Matthias's longer poems The two books together represent some thirty years of his work The poems in Swimming at Midnight range from early lyrics written in America during the late 1960s to meditative poems dealing with historical geographical and cultural themes deriving from Matthias's years in England in the seventies and eighties they include the epistolary poems from Turns Poem for Cynouai from Crossing A Wind in Roussillon from Northern Summer and the formal experiments engaging issues of poetics and metaphysics for which Matthias is well known The book concludes with a section of new poems and translations dealing both with the public world of modern history and the private experience of life in the century's final decade The last poem of all connects the work in Swimming at Midnight with the last of the long poems in Beltane at Aphelion Critics have been warm in their praise of Matthias's work Robert Duncan called his early poetry the work of a Goliard one of those wandering souls out of a Dark Age in our own time and Guy Davenport has said that his recent work makes him one of the leading poets in the USA D M Thomas in the TLS admired the virtuosity of Turns and the way life presses into the poems while John Fuller in the same journal found the poems in Crossing bursting with a masterful intelligence In a long essay on Northern Summer Jeremy Hooker wrote In his combination of lyrical and discursive voices as in subject and concern Matthias has an exciting range He writes in some poems from a tension between a scribe's respect for the integrity of his materials and a magician's freedom to transform them and in many poems he brings together the contrasting gifts and is fully present as himself both scribe and magician Animal Locomotion. Or Walking, Swimming, and Flying, with a Dissertation on Aëronautics James Bell Pettigrew, 2024-02-28 Reprint of the original first published in 1883
