The Teacher's Role in Implementing Cooperative Learning in the Classroom Robyn M. Gillies, Adrian Ashman, Jan Terwel, 2007-09-26 Cooperative learning is widely endorsed as a pedagogical practice that promotes student learning Recently the research focus has moved to the role of teachers discourse during cooperative learning and its effects on the quality of group discussions and the learning achieved However although the benefits of cooperative learning are well documented implementing this pedagogical practice in classrooms is a challenge that many teachers have difficulties accomplishing Difficulties may occur because teachers often do not have a clear understanding of the basic tenets of cooperative learning and the research and theoretical perspectives that have informed this practice and how they translate into practical applications that can be used in their classrooms In effect what do teachers need to do to affect the benefits widely documented in research A reluctance to embrace cooperative learning may also be due to the challenge it poses to teachers control of the learning process the demands it places on classroom organisational changes and the personal commitments teachers need to make to sustain their efforts Moreover a lack of understanding of the key role teachers need to play in embedding cooperative learning into the curricula to foster open communication and engagement among teachers and students promote cooperative investigation and problem solving and provide students with emotionally and intellectually stimulating learning environments may be another contributing factor The Teacher's Role in Implementing Cooperative Learning in the Classroom provides readers with a comprehensive overview of these issues with clear guidelines on how teachers can embed cooperative learning into their classroom curricula to obtain the benefits widely attributed to this pedagogical practice It does so by using language that is appropriate for both novice and experienced educators The volume provides an overview of the major research and theoretical perspectives that underpin the development of cooperative learning pedagogy outlines how specific small group experiences can promote thinking and learning discusses the key role teachers play in promoting student discourse and demonstrates how interaction style among students and teachers is crucial in facilitating discussion and learning The collection of chapters includes many practical illustrations drawn from the contributors own research of how teachers can use cooperative learning pedagogy to facilitate thinking and learning among students across different educational settings

Teacher Education in Sub-Saharan Africa Rosarii Griffin, 2012-05-14 In the drive to achieve universal primary education as one of the Millennium Development Goals there is an increasing recognition of the urgency of focusing on teacher education to both meet the demand for more than one million qualified teachers required to achieve this goal within sub Saharan Africa as well as to combat the sometimes poor quality educational experience reported in the school. Currently approximately only one third of teachers are qualified to teach. This dearth in qualified teachers also means that secondary and tertiary education need to be improved upon to provide an educated cohort of graduates. This in turn will ensure that the quality of teacher trained and retained within the profession is of a sufficiently high standard to ensure sustainable progress. This volume focuses on the various aspects of teacher education which need to be addressed in order for the wider Millennium Goals to be achieved but more importantly so that each African child living within sub Saharan Africa will have the right to a quality education ensuring they too experience their right and entitlement as children to reach their full potential often taken for granted in Western countries giving African children the necessary tools to build a better future for themselves. Of particular interest to the education researcher and policy maker this volume's contributors look at the various issues and challenges around the teacher profession particularly in relation to resources and practices within sub Saharan Africa. The contributors examine the issue of building research capacity for educational research within teacher education Colleges and explore the concept of education for sustainable development with the view to improving the development of quality teacher education within the global South. In this volume research reports are presented highlighting the various challenges within the structure and provision of teacher education within certain national contexts including assessment and curricula issues which need to be addressed. This volume goes from the global to the local and examines teacher educator teaching learning and reflective practice issues within different contexts as well as exploring alternative pre service experiences for western teachers who wish to work within the sub Saharan context as well as some teacher educator exchange programmes between the South and North. Case countries explored include Lesotho, South Africa, Mozambique, Uganda, Kenya, Tanzania and Madagascar to mention but a few. Of particular value to the education researcher and policy maker this book provides a timely resource focusing on an area of neglect highlighting the central role of the teacher and teacher education towards sustainable development within the sub Saharan African context.

Teacher Education and the Challenge of Development Bob Moon, 2013. It provides a unique overview of the crisis surrounding the provision of high quality teachers in the developing world and how these teachers are crucial to the alleviation of poverty. The book explores existing policy structures and identifies the global pressures on teaching which are particularly acute in developing economies.

Resources in Education ,1999-04      Photography in Educational Research Susie Miles,Andy Howes,2014-11-27 Photography in education involves the use of photographs to engage research participants in representing and reflecting upon their own experiences This book explores how photographic images can be used in a range of educational settings in different cultural contexts as a method of facilitating communication and reflection on significant issues in people's lives. It considers the opportunities that are created through the use of photography as a visual research method and addresses fundamental issues about identity, representation, participation, and power which underlie participatory practice. Bringing together a variety of international contributors, chapters describe and reflect on experiences of using photography, situating them in a critical framework to provoke informed applications of these processes. The collection adopts a broad view of education, considering voices of people of different ages who are at various stages on their educational journey or who have diverse perspectives on their educational experience: young British Muslims, trainee science teachers, audiologists, teachers of deaf children, mobile teacher educators working in conflict zones, young people with disabilities, community workers, and school students in countries as diverse as Australia, Burma, Cyprus, England, Ethiopia, Kenya, the United States, and Sudan. Photography in Educational Research will be key reading for educational researchers, postgraduate students studying research methods and ethics, tutors working in higher education, and individual practitioners and teams within schools interested in young people's voices, ethnicity, mental health, global citizenship, and school development. Bilingualism for All? Nelson Flores, Amelia Tseng, Nicholas Subtirelu, 2020-12-16. It is common for scholarly and mainstream discourses on dual language education in the US to frame these programs as inherently socially transformative and to see their proliferation in recent years as a natural means of developing more anti-racist spaces in public schools. In contrast, this book adopts a raciolinguistic perspective that points to the contradictory role that these programs play in both reproducing and challenging racial hierarchies. The book includes 11 chapters that adopt a range of methodological techniques: qualitative, quantitative, and textual; disciplinary perspectives: linguistics, sociology, and anthropology; and language foci: Spanish, Hebrew, and Korean, to examine the ways that dual language education programs in the US often reinforce the racial inequities that they purport to challenge. Great Teachers Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Education Committee, 2012. Additional written evidence is contained in Volume 3 available on the Committee website at www.parliament.uk/education-committee. Handbook of Research on Transformative and Innovative Pedagogies in Education Keengwe, Jared, 2022-05-13. Various pedagogies such as the use of digital learning in education have been used and researched for decades, but many schools have little to show for these initiatives. This contrasts starkly with technology-supported initiatives in other fields such as business and healthcare. Traditional pedagogies and general digital technology applications have yet to impact education in a significant way that transforms learning. A primary reason for this minimal impact on learning is that digital technologies have attempted to make traditional instructional processes more efficient rather than using a more appropriate paradigm for learning. As such, it is important to look at digital technology as a partner and use transformative applications to become partners with students, not teachers, to empower their learning process both in and out of school. The Handbook of Research on Transformative and Innovative Pedagogies in Education is a comprehensive reference that identifies and justifies the paradigm of transformative learning and pedagogies in education. It provides exemplars of existing transformative applications that if used as partners to empower student learning have the potential to dramatically engage students in a type of learning that better fits 21st century learners. Covering topics such as gamification, project based learning and professional development, this major reference work is an essential resource for pre-service and in-service teachers, educational technologists, instructional designers, educational administration and faculty researchers and academicians seeking pedagogical models that inspire students to learn meaningfully.

Literacy Learning in the Early Years Caroline Barratt-Pugh, Mary Rohl, 2020-07-16 Children's early experiences of literacy have a major influence on how they continue to learn as they grow older. Children enter early childhood programs and school with a wealth of knowledge and understandings of literacy. It is critical that early childhood professionals and teachers recognise and build on this learning. Literacy Learning in the Early Years offers a practical introduction to literacy issues for early childhood professionals and teachers working with children aged 0-8 in childcare, preschool and school contexts. The authors take a socio-cultural approach to literacy learning, emphasising the importance of understanding the various contexts in which young children are involved in literacy practices. They explore a range of literacy issues that early childhood professionals and teachers are facing in the 21st century. These issues include the role of play in literacy learning, how to use information communication technologies with young children and ways of introducing critical literacy. Literacy is understood broadly and readers are encouraged to explore a range of print and other media with children. With chapters from both Australian and UK authors, Literacy Learning in the Early Years is an ideal professional reference and student text, a very useful introductory text to literacy development in early childhood. It is clearly written and accessible to the wide range of professionals working with young children as well as to teachers and parents. It will be a valuable text in training at initial and in-service levels on a wide range of courses. Lesley Abbott, Professor of Early Childhood Education, Manchester Metropolitan University. This well-written comprehensive book combines many practical examples of learning to do literacy and suggestions for action and all the while engages the reader with questions and starting points for reflection. Susan Hill, Associate professor, The Centre for Studies in Literacy, University of South Australia.

Sustainable English Language Teacher Development at Scale Ian Eyres, Tom Power, Robert McCormick, 2018-09-06 This book offers a thorough and comprehensive review of the lessons learnt from the award-winning English in Action English language teacher development programme which ran in government primary and secondary schools across Bangladesh from 2008 to 2017. Over the course of nine years, the programme involved 51,000 teachers and 20 million school students, demonstrably raising standards of teachers' classroom practice and students' English language attainment and won the British Council ELTON Award for Local Innovation 2013 and Times Higher Education Award for International Impact 2017. The sixteen chapters explore the programme in detail, looking at both the successes and the challenges encountered throughout its course, including the strategies used to address the challenges. The key innovative factors of the programme include a positive choice to build on the existing context such as the lives and experiences of local teachers and the demands of a nationally determined curriculum teacher learning taking place in the teachers own classrooms a focus on learning the how of communicative language teaching through reflective practice and peer support the use within a carefully constructed pedagogy of affordable readily available mobile phone technology the use of mediated authentic video a model of teacher development at very large scale that provided a successful alternative to the cascade model a partnership with government institutions to ensure that improved practices are maintained beyond the life of the Programme
