W. Bamberg, Molly Andrews, 2004-01-01 Counter narratives only make sense in relation to something else that which they are countering The very name identifies it as a positional category in tension with another category But what is dominant and what is resistant are not of course static questions but rather are forever shifting placements The discussion of counter narratives is ultimately a consideration of multiple layers of positioning The fluidity of these relational categories is what lies at the center of the chapters and commentaries collected in this book The book comprises six target chapters by leading scholars in the field Twenty two commentators discuss these chapters from a number of diverse vantage points followed by responses from the six original authors A final chapter by the editor of the book series concludes the book

When IVF Fails K. Throsby, 2004-08-19 In spite of the fact that almost eighty percent of all IVF cycles are unsuccessful the dominant representations of the technology are of its success Based on extensive interviews with women and couples who have undergone IVF unsuccessfully and who have since stopped treatment and taking an overtly feminist approach the book explores the ways in which IVF failure is experienced and accounted for The book argues that IVF failure and the end of treatment have to be carefully managed over time in order to construct the self as normal in the profoundly gendered context of reproductive normativity Treatment failure is identified in the book not only as a central but largely excluded aspect of the experience of IVF but also of a proliferating range of new more controversial reproductive and genetic technologies

Becoming a Mother Mari Gallagher, 2018-12-28 Becoming a Mother is the first book published in Ireland exploring the complexity of adoption from the perspective of an adoptive parent. It draws on a combination of seminal and modern texts and personal memoir to present a unique view of what it means to be an adoptive parent in Ireland today. The book has a particular focus on intercountry adoptive parenting and also looks at adoption from the viewpoints of the adopted person and birth parent. A dearth of literature exploring adoption exists on Irish bookshelves. Becoming a Mother seeks to fill that void by exploring issues around the topic of adoption: the secrecy and silence that still pervades adoption; the primal desire to parent that drives adoptive parenting; the tumultuousness of search and reunion; and more. It includes shared experiences and tips on bonding with the adopted child as well as a look at parenthood for the adopted person. Becoming a Mother will be of interest to the estimated 10 per cent of the Irish population connected to adoption in some way, including the 5 000 children who were adopted from abroad. The book has been included as essential reading on preparatory courses for prospective adoptive parents and also on Barnardos' post-adoptive service reading list.

What to Expect When You're Experiencing Infertility Debby Peoples, Harriette Rovner Ferguson, 1998. Written in a question and answer format, this sympathetic and practical book offers practical advice on how to contend with the emotional ups and downs of infertility, from learning how to communicate feelings more effectively to coping with the losses of failed treatments or miscarriages.

Having Your Baby Through Egg Donation Ellen Sarasohn Glazer, Evelina Weidman Sterling, 2011-12-15. A practical guide for prospective parents covering the key decisions, stages and ethical questions relating to donor conception.

The Elusive Embryo Gay Becker, 2000-12-20. In the first book to examine the industry of reproductive technology from the perspective of the consumer, Gay Becker scrutinizes the staggering array of medical options available to women and men with fertility problems and assesses the toll both financial and emotional that the quest for a biological child often exacts. From would-be parents, Becker interviewed hundreds of people over a period of years; their stories are presented here in their own words. Absorbing, informative and in many cases moving, these stories address deep-seated notions about gender, self-worth and the cultural ideal of biological parenthood. Becker moves beyond people's personal experiences to examine contemporary meanings of technology and the role of consumption in modern life. What emerges is a clear view of technology as culture, with technology the template on which issues such as gender, nature and the body are being rewritten and continuously altered. The Elusive Embryo chronicles the history and development of reproductive technology and shows how global forces in consumer culture have contributed to the industry's growth. Becker examines how increasing use of reproductive technology has changed ideas about natural pregnancy and birth. Discussing topics such as in vitro fertilization, how men and women naturalize the use of a donor and what happens when new reproductive technologies don't work, Becker shows how the experience of infertility has become increasingly politicized as potential parents confront the powerful forces that shape this industry. The Elusive Embryo is accessible, well-written and well-documented. It will be an invaluable resource for people using or considering new reproductive technologies as well as for social scientists and health professionals.

Motherhood Optional Phyllis Ziman

Tobin, Barbara Aria, 1998-06-01 Reminding women that motherhood is an option not a given much less an instinct New York psychotherapist Phyllis Ziman Tobin contends that choosing to be or not to be a mother is the defining rite of passage for today's woman She draws on the composite struggles of real people to show how the dilemma is rooted in unexamined assumptions about normalcy fear of change and loss of control and the not always audible voices of our own mothers Dr Tobin challenges mental health professionals to recognize that coming to terms with the motherhood question is an act of maturation proper to every woman an opportunity for self creation She herself recognizes that for women who find themselves infertile or uncoupled or unconventionally situated the question is compounded and painfully revisited as reproductive technology fails adoption is considered time passes Whichever option a woman ultimately selects she loses something Dr Tobin acknowledges yet she gains by weighing the fear of now against the fear of never and being the agent instead of the victim of her regrets
