

Short Story: Swimming partners

GENRE	Short Story
TITLE	SWIMMING PARTNERS
AUTHOR	Timwa Lipenga

PLOT SUMMARY

Linda is the narrator of the story. She is looking back on her relationship with her sister. She is two years younger than her sister, Aisha. She adores her sister and tries to copy everything she says and does. The mean kids at school call her Aisha's 'slave' and others call her Aisha's 'shadow'. Sometimes, Aisha likes Linda following her but sometimes she gets irritated by it. She makes the plans for them and always tells Linda what to do.

One day she tells Linda that they are going swimming in the stream. They are not allowed to go to the stream and Linda feels nervous. But she follows Aisha anyway. Aisha takes off her school uniform and gets into the water. Linda takes off her uniform too but does not get in because she does not know how to swim. Aisha tells her she is just playing in the water. She says that if Linda does not want to get into the water and play, she should go home. When Linda gets in, she is cold. Linda copies her sister who is splashing water about. The girls start splashing water and chasing each other. Linda is so busy having fun that she forgets about the cold. On this day, the girls first become 'swimming partners'.

When Linda and Aisha get home, they are shivering from the cold. Their mother asks them where they have been. Aisha lies. She says they were trying to collect firewood. Mother does not believe her and asks Linda. Linda just keeps quiet—she does not want to lie to Mother and she does not want to betray Aisha. Mother feels her wet head. She figures out that they went swimming. She is very angry with them. She yells at Aisha for putting Linda in danger. She yells at Linda, saying she could have drowned. She tells Linda that she is like the khoye bird that lets itself be carried by the wind in any direction. In other words, she will do anything Aisha tells her to without thinking about it.

Their mother then gives the girls their 'judgement' (punishment): she decides she will not tell their father (because he has enough to worry about). The girls are relieved, because they know he would have beaten them. Instead, Mother punishes them by not giving them supper. She dishes up for their father and then eats in front of them. Linda is so hungry and wants to cry. However, she does not cry because she does not want Aisha to laugh at her.

The punishment teaches the girls to be more careful, so they do not get caught in the future. They carry on going to the stream and teach themselves how to swim. They always make sure to collect firewood to take home before swimming, and not to stay in the water for too long. The stream makes them feel free. Linda explains that as they grow older they are more than sisters; they are friends. The stream, too, is like their friend.
