

The book cover features a stylized, expressionist illustration of a city street at night. In the foreground, several large, pale faces with wide, staring eyes and various hats (top hats, bowlers, a wide-brimmed hat) are depicted. The background shows a street with buildings, some with lit windows, and a dark sky. The overall style is reminiscent of early 20th-century modernist art.

Curating Differently Jessica Sjöholm Skrubbe, 2016-01-14 Exhibitionary spaces and curatorial strategies ideologically frame the encounter between art and its publics For more than forty years feminist art curating as a practice of art interpretation and a politics of display has intersected with the diverse area of feminist art historical research and feminist artistic practices It is only recently however that a theorization of feminist art curating and feminist exhibition histories as a specific field of knowledge has emerged Curating Differently is a collection of essays that offers critical perspectives on and analyses of the intersections of feminisms art exhibitions and curatorial spaces from the 1970s onward It brings together case studies from Australia Israel Europe and North America that critically account for diverse strategies and interventions in curatorial space The essays contribute with historical perspectives on feminist exhibition practices and curatorial models and first hand accounts of feminist interventions within the art museum as well as timely analyses of current intersections of feminisms within curating in the contemporary global art world As a major contribution to the ongoing scholarly debate on the institutionalization of feminisms in art and its relative success or failure Curating Differently will provide new insights and provoke further discussion on the history and theory of feminist art exhibitions and curatorial spaces

The Social Context of James Ensor's Art Practice Susan M. Canning, 2022-10-20 Vive la Sociale This rousing revolutionary statement written on a bright red banner across the top of James Ensor's Christ's Entry into Brussels in 1889 served as a visual manifesto and call to action by the Belgian artist 1860-1949 one that announced with an insistent public voice the centrality of his art practice to the cultural discourse of modern Belgium This provocative declaration serves as the title for this new study of Ensor's art focusing on its social discourse and the artist's interaction with and at times satirical encounter with his contemporary milieu Rather than the alienated and traumatized Expressionist given preference in modern art history Ensor is presented here as an artist of agency and purpose whose art practice engaged the issues and concerns of middle class Belgian life society and politics and was informed by the values and class race and gendered perspectives of his time Ensor's radical vision and oppositional strategy of resistance self fashioning and performance remains relevant This book with its timely nuanced reading of the art and career of this often misunderstood artist's artist invites a re evaluation not only of Ensor's social context and expressive critique but also his unique contribution to modernist art practice

Max Klinger and Wilhelmine Culture Marsha Morton, 2017-07-05 The Wilhelmine Empire's opening decades 1870s 1880s were crucial transitional years in the development of German modernism both politically and culturally Here Marsha Morton argues that no artist represented the shift from tradition to unsettling innovation more compellingly than Max Klinger The author examines Klinger's early prints and drawings within the context of intellectual and material transformations in Wilhelmine society through an interdisciplinary approach that encompasses Darwinism ethnography dreams and hypnosis the literary Romantic grotesque criminology and the urban experience His work in advance of Expressionism revealed the psychological and biological underpinnings of modern rational man whose drives and passions undermined bourgeois constructions of material progress social stability and class status at a time when Germans were engaged in defining themselves following unification This book is the first full length study of Klinger in English and the first to consistently address his art using methodologies adopted from cultural history With an emphasis on the popular illustrated media Morton draws upon information from reviews and early books on the artist writings by Klinger and his colleagues and unpublished archival sources The book is intended for an academic readership interested in European art history social science literature and cultural studies

Reframing Japonisme Elizabeth Emery, 2020-09-17 Japonisme the nineteenth century fascination for Japanese art has generated an enormous body of scholarship since the beginning of the twenty first century but most of it neglects the women who acquired objects from the Far East and sold them to clients or displayed them in their homes before bequeathing them to museums The stories of women shopkeepers collectors and artists rarely appear in memoirs left by those associated with the japoniste movement This volume brings to light the culturally important yet largely forgotten activities of women such as Clémence d'Ennery 1823 1898 who began collecting Japanese and Chinese chimeras in the 1840s built and decorated a house for them in the 1870s and bequeathed the Musée d'Ennery to the state as a free public museum in 1893 A friend of the Goncourt brothers and a fifty year patron of Parisian dealers of Asian art d'Ennery's struggles to gain recognition as a collector and curator serve as a lens through which to examine the collecting and display practices of other women of her day Travelers to Japan such as the Duchesse de Persigny Isabella Stewart Gardner and Laure Durand Fardel returned with souvenirs that they shared with friends and family Salon hostesses including Juliette Adam Louise Cahen d'Anvers Princesse Mathilde and Marguerite Charpentier provided venues for the discussion and examination of Japanese art objects as did well known art dealers Madame Desoye Madame Malinet Madame Hatty and Madame Langweil Writers actresses and artists Judith Gautier Thérèse Bentzon Sarah Bernhardt and Mary Cassatt to name just a few took inspiration from the Japanese material in circulation to create their own unique works of art. Largely absent from the history of Japonisme, these women and many others actively collected Japanese art, interacted with auction houses and art dealers and formed collections now at the heart of museums such as the Louvre, the Musée Guimet, the Musée Cernuschi, the Musée Unterlinden and the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The Political Uncommons Kathryn Milun, 2016-12-05

In The Political Uncommons, Kathryn Milun presents a cultural history of the global commons, those domains including the atmosphere, the oceans, the radio frequency spectrum, the earth's biodiversity and its outer space designated by international law as belonging to no single individual or nation state but rather to all humankind. From the res communis of Roman property law to early modern laws establishing the freedom of the seas, from the legal battles over the neutrality of the internet to the heritage of the earth's genetic diversity, Milun connects ancient, modern and postmodern legal traditions of global commons. Arguing that the logic of legal institutions governing global commons is connected to the logic of colonial doctrines that dispossessed indigenous peoples of their land, she demonstrates that the failure of international law to adequately govern the earth's atmosphere and waters can be more deeply understood as a cultural logic that has successfully dispossessed humankind of basic subsistence rights. The promise of global commons, Milun shows, has always been related to subsistence rights and an earth that human communities have long imagined as common, existing alongside private and public domains. Utilizing specific case studies, The Political Uncommons opens a way to consider how global commons regimes might benefit from the cross-cultural logics found where indigenous peoples have gained recognition of their common tenure systems in Western courts.

Visual Culture and Pandemic Disease Since 1750 Marsha Morton, Ann-Marie Akehurst, 2023-07-06

Through case studies, this book investigates the pictorial imaging of epidemics globally, especially from the late eighteenth century through the 1920s, when amidst expanding Western industrialism, colonialism and scientific research, the world endured a succession of pandemics in tandem with the rise of popular visual culture and new media. Images discussed range from the depiction of people and places to the invisible realms of pathogens and emotions, while topics include the messaging of disease prevention and containment in public health initiatives, the motivations of governments to ensure control, the criticism of authority in graphic satire and the private experience of illness in the domestic realm. Essays explore biomedical conditions as well as the recurrent constructed social narratives of bias, blame and othering regarding race, gender and class that are frequently highlighted in visual representations. This volume offers a pictured genealogy of pandemic experience that has continuing resonance. The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history, visual studies, history of medicine and medical humanities.

Besieged Leningrad Polina Barskova, 2017-10-15

During the 872 days of the Siege of Leningrad, September 1941 to January 1944, the city's inhabitants were surrounded by the military forces of Nazi Germany They suffered famine cold and darkness and a million people lost their lives making the siege one of the most destructive in history Confinement in the besieged city was a traumatic experience Unlike the victims of the Auschwitz concentration camp for example who were brought from afar and robbed of their cultural roots the victims of the Siege of Leningrad were trapped in the city as it underwent a slow horrific transformation They lost everything except their physical location which was layered with historical cultural and personal memory In Besieged Leningrad Polina Barskova examines how the city's inhabitants adjusted to their new urban reality focusing on the emergence of new spatial perceptions that fostered the production of diverse textual and visual representations The myriad texts that emerged during the siege were varied and exciting engendered by sometimes sharply conflicting ideological urges and aesthetic sensibilities In this first study of the cultural and literary representations of spatiality in besieged Leningrad Barskova examines a wide range of authors with competing views of their difficult relationship with the city filling a gap in Western knowledge of the culture of the siege It will appeal to Russian studies specialists as well as those interested in war testimonies and the representation of trauma

The Symbolist Roots of Modern Art Michelle Facos, 2017-07-05 With the words A new manifestation of art was expected necessary inevitable Jean Mor announced the advent of the Symbolist movement in 1886 When Symbolist artists began experimenting in order to invent new visual languages appropriate for representing modern life in all its complexity they set the stage for innovation in twentieth century art Rejecting what they perceived as the superficial descriptive quality of Impressionism Naturalism and Realism Symbolist artists delved beneath the surface to express feelings ideas scientific processes and universal truths By privileging intangible concepts over perceived realities and by asserting their creative autonomy Symbolist artists broke with the past and paved the way for the heterogeneity and penchant for risk taking that characterizes modern art The essays collected here which consider artists from France to Russia and Finland to Greece argue persuasively that Symbolist approaches to content form and subject helped to shape twentieth century Modernism Well known figures such as Kandinsky Khnopff Matisse and Munch are considered alongside lesser known artists such as Fini Gyzis Koen and Vrubel in order to demonstrate that Symbolist art did not constitute an isolated moment of wild experimentation but rather an inspirational point of departure for twentieth century developments History of a Shiver Jed Rasula, 2016-02-26 A sweeping cultural history that draws on music literature painting and film History of a Shiver uncovers how art pioneered in the nineteenth century provided the foundation for modernist aesthetics Unplanned Cities in Modern American Poetry Daniela Kukrechtová, 2025-07-10 Reveals how five modern American poets challenged prevailing discourses about urbanization through lyrical representations of cities and the diverse people who lived in them In early 20th century America industrialization and the influx of immigrants and rural migrants into urban centers fostered a certain representation of and distaste for cities and their inhabitants The dominant discourse was one of containment through utopian planning and violent reshaping often reflected in both policy making and writings about cities during this time Yet as Daniela Kukrechtová identifies urban literature also reveals voices that challenged that narrative Unplanned Cities in Modern American Poetry shows how the formally innovative works of five poets Jean Toomer William Carlos Williams Hart Crane Frank O'Hara and Gwendolyn Brooks worked against anti urban discourse Their works displayed a love for disorderly cityscapes and the actual urbanites who inhabit them promoting the radical idea that cities were for people while revealing the extreme dystopian utopian discourses that helped create and maintain divisions and disparities Kukrechtová argues that besides offering a radical critique these poets also used their poetry to imagine the mental and emotional attitudes of urban dwellers toward their environment She therefore offers the urban ecocritical approach often missing in literary analyses of modern American poetry Simultaneously the lyrical and socially engaged imagination in these works that is the human implications of various plans designs and policies that helped create the modern American city represent a voice often unheard in urban studies and its history
