The Corsican Time-bomb Robert Ramsay,1983 Mediterranean Island Landscapes Ioannis N. Vogiatzakis,Gloria Pungetti,A.M. Mannion,2008-02-26 Mediterranean islands exhibit many similarities in their biotic ecological physical and environmental characteristics There are also many differences in terms of their human colonization and current anthropogenic pressures This book addresses in three sections these characteristics and examines the major environmental changes that the islands experienced during the Quaternary period The first section provides details on natural and cultural factors which have shaped island landscapes It describes the environmental and cultural changes of the Holocene and their effects on biota as well as on the current human pressures that are now threats to the sustainability of the island communities The second section focuses on the landscapes of the largest islands namely Sicily Sardinia Corsica Cyprus Crete Malta and the Balearics Each island chapter includes a special topic reflecting a particular characteristic of the island Part three presents strategies for action towards sustainability in Mediterranean islands and concludes with a comparison between the largest islands Despite several published books on Mediterranean ecosystems landscapes there is no existing book dealing with Mediterranean islands in a collective manner Students researchers and university lecturers in environmental science geography biology and ecology will find this work invaluable as a cross disciplinary text while planners and politicians will welcome the succinct summaries as background material to planning decisions

Zanetti Domingues, Lorenzo Caravaggi, Giulia M. Paoletti, 2021-12-30 This pioneering work explores the theme of women and violence in the late medieval Mediterranean bringing together medievalists of different specialties and methodologies to offer readers an updated outline of how different disciplines can contribute to the study of gender-based violence in medieval times Building on the contributions of the social sciences and in particular feminist criminology the book analyses the rich theme of women and violence in its full spectrum including both violence committed against women and violence perpetrated by women themselves in order to show how medieval assumptions postulated a tight connection between the two Violent crime verbal offences war and peace making are among the themes approached by the book which assesses to what extent coexisting elaborations on the relationship between femininity and violence in the Mediterranean were conflicting or collaborating Geographical regions explored include Western Europe Byzantium and the Islamic world This multidisciplinary book will appeal to scholars and students of history literature gender studies and legal studies
