Testing The Water Young People And Galleries:

Testing the Water David Anderson, 2000-01-01 Item explores the work of Tate Gallery Liverpool's work with young audiences including the development of Young Tate      Youth Work, Galleries and the Politics of Partnership Nicola Sim, 2019-10-31 This book sheds critical light on the routinely debated issue of how to create sustainable equitable and meaningful partnerships between visual art organisations and youth organisations Using a Bourdieusian framework this book analyses the different social and professional worlds of youth work and gallery education and explores why tensions often arise between partners in these fields Written at a time of significant crisis for the UK youth sector and in the context of an entrenched neoliberal policy climate this publication seeks to highlight hopeful experimental practice and possibilities for creative resistance With public organisations and services under ever greater governmental pressure to pursue collaborations within and across sectors this is a timely moment to examine the challenges ethics and advantages of working together and to bring theoretical discussion to dominant yet vague understandings of partnership      The Responsive Museum Caroline Lang, John Reeve, 2016-02-24 What is the relationship today between museums galleries and learning The Responsive Museum interrogates the thinking policies and practices that underpin the educational role of the museum It unravels the complex relationship of museums with their publics and discusses today's challenges and the debates that have resulted The highly experienced team of writers including museum educators and directors share their different experiences and views and review recent research and examples of best practice They analyse the implications of audience development and broadening public access particularly in relation to special groups minority communities and disabled people and for individual self development and different learning styles they explore issues of public accountability and funding discuss the merits of different evaluation tools and methodologies for measuring audience impact and needs and assess the role of architects designers and artists in shaping the visitor experience The latter part of this book reviews practical management and staffing issues and training and skills needs for the future This book is for students museum staff especially those involved in education and interpretation and senior management and policy makers This is a much needed review of the relationship between museums and galleries and their users It also offers a wealth of information and expertise to guide future strategy and practice      Museums and Higher Education Working Together Jos Boys, 2016-04-22 Over the last twenty years the educational role of the museum has come to be central to its mission There are now far more educational opportunities new spaces new interfaces both digital and physical and a growing number of education and interpretation departments educational curators and public engagement programmes Despite these developments however higher education has remained a marginal collaborator compared to primary and secondary schools and to other forms of adult learning This has meant that the possibilities for partnerships between universities colleges museums and galleries has remained relatively unexplored especially in relation to their potential for generating innovative patterns of research and learning This book addresses the key issues which are preventing such partnerships and examines how to enable more effective and creative connections between museums and higher education The authors identify conceptual and practical barriers and explore whether current academic models are fit for purpose They argue that as pressures mount on public educational resources around the world there needs to be an urgent increase in the exchange of knowledge across these sectors and the forging of world class scholarly partnerships Examples of research undertaken internationally offer best practice models for collaboration and integration This book will be compulsory reading for museum and educational specialists and those interested in engaging in museum higher education partnerships It will also be of interest to those involved in policy and decision making in education the museum sector and national and local government The

Engaging Museum Graham Black,2012-11-12 This very practical book guides museums on how to create the highest quality experience possible for their visitors Creating an environment that supports visitor engagement with collections means examining every stage of the visit from the initial impetus to go to a particular institution to front of house management interpretive approach and qualitative analysis afterwards This holistic approach will be immensely helpful to museums in meeting the needs and expectations of visitors and building their audience This book features includes chapter introductions and discussion sections supporting case studies to show how ideas are put into practice a lavish selection of tables figures and plates to support and illustrate the discussion boxes showing ideas models and planning suggestions to guide development an up to date bibliography of landmark research The Engaging Museum offers a set of principles that can be adapted to any museum in any location and will be a valuable resource for institutions of every shape and size as well as a vital addition to the reading lists of museum studies students Young People's Images of Science Rosalind Driver,John

Leach,Robin Millar,Phil Scott,1996-01-16 What ideas about science do school students form as a result of their experiences in and out of school How might science teaching in schools develop a more scientifically literate society How do school students understand disputes about scientific issues including those which have social significance such as the irradiation of food There have been calls in the UK and elsewhere for a greater public understanding of science underpinned by amongst other things school science education However the relationship between school science scientific literacy and the public understanding of science remains controversial In this book the authors argue that an understanding of science goes beyond learning the facts laws and theories of science and that it involves understanding the nature of scientific knowledge itself and the relationships between science and society Results of a major study into the understanding of these issues by school students aged 9 to 16 are described These results suggest that the success of the school science curriculum in promoting this kind of understanding is at best limited The book concludes by discussing ways in which the school science curriculum could be adapted to better equip students as future citizens in our modern scientific and technological society It will be particularly relevant to science teachers advisers and inspectors teacher educators and curriculum planners CURRENT CONTENTS
