

Texts and Human Experiences

In this common module students deepen their understanding of how texts represent individual and collective human experiences. They examine how texts represent human qualities and emotions associated with, or arising from, these experiences. Students appreciate, explore, interpret, analyse and evaluate the ways language is used to shape these representations in a range of texts in a variety of forms, modes and media.

Students explore how texts may give insight into the anomalies, paradoxes and inconsistencies in human behaviour and motivations, inviting the responder to see the world differently, to challenge assumptions, ignite new ideas or reflect personally. They may also consider the role of storytelling throughout time to express and reflect particular lives and cultures. By responding to a range of texts they further develop skills and confidence using various literary devices, language concepts, modes and media to formulate a considered response to texts.

Students study one prescribed text and a range of short texts that provide rich opportunities to further explore representations of human experiences illuminated in texts. They make increasingly informed judgements about how aspects of these texts, for example context, purpose, structure, stylistic and grammatical features, and form shape meaning. In addition, students select one related text and draw from personal experience to make connections between themselves, the world of the text and their wider world.

Key statement	What does it mean?
Individual and collective human experiences	Individual human experience is one experienced by one individual whereas a collective experience is shared
Human qualities and emotions associated with, or arising from, these experiences	The attributes, characteristics and feelings connected to/caused by human experiences.
Anomalies, paradoxes and inconsistencies in human behaviour and motivations	Anomalies : Behaviour and motivations outside the norms and conventions of a particular social context Paradoxes: Behaviour and motivations which on the surface, do not make sense Inconsistencies : Behaviour and motivations which changes in some way.
To see the world differently, to challenge assumptions, ignite new ideas or reflect personally	The ways in which the text affects the audience's way of thinking – whether by exposing them to new ideas and practices, challenging what they previously thought to be true, creating new ideas or inspiring an assessment of the self.
