Personality Tests and Assessments (Psychology Revivals) Philip E. Vernon, 2014-01-27 Originally published in 1953 this book provided the first comprehensive account of methods of personality assessment by a British author. It starts with a short survey of personality theory pointing out the difficulties in any method of testing or assessment. Next it describes the weaknesses of the common interview method. Throughout the emphasis is on methods which are usable in educational or vocational guidance and selection, not on methods which are mainly of scientific interest. Thereafter it takes up each main type of technique: tests based on physique or psychological measures; on expressive movement such as gestures and handwriting; tests of behaviour including War Office Selection Board, house party methods, ratings and rating scales, questionnaires, and so-called projective techniques. The evidence for or against each test or method is surveyed and numerous references provided for relevant literature. Illustrative excerpts are given of many of the more promising tests and some pictorial illustrations. British work in this field at the time is covered completely and an attempt is made to provide a fair summary of the main contributions of American and other psychologists of the day.

Libon PhD, FACPN, ABN, 2013-07-12 The Boston Process Approach to neuropsychological assessment advanced by Edith Kaplan has a long and well-respected history in the field. However, its theoretical and empirical support has not previously been assembled in an easily accessible format. This volume fills that void by compiling the historical, empirical, and practical teachings of the Process Approach. The reader will find a detailed history of the precursors to this model of thought, its development through its proponents such as Harold Goodglass, Nelson Butters, Laird Cermak, and Norman Geschwind, and its continuing legacy. The second section provides a guide to applying the Boston Process Approach to some of the field's most commonly used measures such as the various Wechsler Intelligence Scales, the Trail Making Test, the California Verbal Learning Test, and the Boston Naming Test. Here the reader will find a detailed history of the empirical evidence for test administration and interpretation using the Boston Process Approach tenets. The final section of the book provides various perspectives on the implementation of the Boston Process Approach in various clinical and research settings and with specialized populations.
